

Meany Has Serious Questions

Labor Huddles on Economic Game Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Without backing from labor and active participation by Meany, Connally acknowledged the administration would find it "extremely difficult" to achieve President Nixon's goal of cutting inflation in half by the end of 1972.

But Meany declined to make any commitments, saying Connally had left "serious questions" unanswered. Instead, he called a special meeting Tuesday of the labor federation's 35-member executive council and invited United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock as well as Teamsters President James E. Fitzsimmons to help forge a united strategy.

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally said the Pay Board set up by President Nixon would make "final" day-to-day decisions and he personally urged AFL-CIO President George Meany to sit on that panel of 15 members—five each from the public, labor and management.

SECRETARY JOHN CONNALLY

ters in Detroit, said he would not serve on the Pay Board unless it had total autonomy over wage increases and that his 1.4 million-member union would not cooperate with the administration until the issue was resolved.

The union leaders were concerned about what they considered "conflicting interpretations" of the status to be held by the Pay Board and the Price Commission, a separate panel of seven persons all representing the public.

Meany claimed that Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson told him and other labor leaders at a briefing Thursday afternoon that the boards would not be subject to veto by the Cost of Living Council and that White House officials then offered a different picture to the press as Nixon was announcing his plans.

Connally, in a 45-minute nationally broadcast news conference Friday, said the freeze would be "really still in effect" after Nov. 13—the date it was to expire—except in cases where the Pay and Price Boards authorized increases. He also said the government and the Cost of Living Council—created by Nixon to administer the present freeze—did not intend to veto decisions by either of the control boards unless they allowed what he termed "exorbitant" increases. "At that point," he said, "we'd lock horns" and "it's fair to say the government is going to be in the picture."

But Meany, in a statement issued shortly after Connally's news conference, said the government's position still was unclear to him. His associates said the 77-year-old labor leader feared the pay board would be only "window dressing" for the Cost of Living Council, which would have the final say.

As the debate continued, the Labor Department reported that total unemployment fell slightly to 6 per cent of the work force in September, the first full month of Nixon's new policy. But it also said the number of Americans looking for work was "virtually unchanged" at nearly 5.1 million and Connally acknowledged "that's frankly nothing to crow about."

On Capitol Hill, Nixon's plan won further endorsements from Republican members of Congress and from Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, who called it "reasonable."

But Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien complained that Nixon and Connally "have ducked every tough question" about the post-freeze policy. "If Mr. Nixon hopes to achieve the voluntary support of the American people, they will have to be convinced that his program is fair to everyone," O'Brien said. Nixon's traditional bias in favor of big business is all too evident.

Meanwhile three federal judges hearing a test of the wage-price freeze have been told the freeze is "government by fiat" administered by faceless individuals in the presidential coterie."

Attorney Albert Gore made the argument Friday in behalf of the 150,000-member Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, which wants the court to declare the freeze illegal.

The union argument that the freeze is unconstitutional contends Congress lacked the authority to grant Nixon power to control wages, prices and rents under the Economic Stabilization Act.

The meat cutters have asked the court for an injunction prohibiting the Cost of Living Council from enforcing the freeze and a judgment forcing eight large meat packing companies to pay a 25-cent-an-hour wage increase retroactive to Sept. 6.

The union and the meat packagers signed the contract providing for the raise last year.

Gore complained requests for exemptions from the freeze were turned down without comment.

Q. Are prices and rents free to zoom up after Nov. 13?

A. No. Both will be subject to price standards developed by the Price Commission, a seven-member group composed of public members.

Q. How much will prices be allowed to rise?

A. Again, that's the Commission's job. But they will have to fit their standards with Nixon's goal of reducing the rise in prices to no more than 2 to 3 per cent by the end of 1972.

Q. How long can I expect Phase 2 to last?

A. Some economists would say until there is a Phase 3, certain items in various areas?

Q. Is my salary still frozen?

A. No. But wages in Phase 2 will be subject to review by a three-part Pay Board, composed of labor, management and public representatives. When it is formed, it will develop wage criteria for the nation.

Q. How do you translate the goal of 2 to 3 per cent inflation, as President Nixon has proposed, into a permissible wage guideline?

A. That will be the job of the Pay Board. But economists think it means a wage guideline of generally 5 to 6 per cent. This is determined by linking salaries to productivity, worker output per man-hour, which is rising at about 3 per cent a year.

Q. Can I get a contract increase that was supposed to go into effect during the freeze?

A. Maybe. Again, this is the job of the Pay Board. Suppose you were due a 10-cent-an-hour raise on Aug. 16, but it was frozen until Nov. 13. On Nov. 14, that 10-cent-an-hour boost will be subject to the wage criteria developed by the Pay Board, which could decide it's either too much or within the standards.

Q. What about the pay I lost from Aug. 16 to Nov. 13? Do I get the retroactive pay?

A. The government now says no, or at least has strongly implied no by saying that "wages were frozen and that's that." But this is a hot issue with organized labor. The issue may not yet be totally resolved.

Tuesday Arraignments Slated In State Gambling Crackdown

ALBANY — Six persons, including one from Kingston, who were arrested during a massive crackdown on gambling in a 10-county area, are scheduled for arraignments Tuesday on indictments reported Friday by Albany County Grand jury.

At the time of the raids by state and local police on Aug. 26, police said the raids had literally broken the back of what they said was a multi-million dollar gambling operation. Seymour "Al" Sher, 46, of 33A Picotte Drive, Albany, identified by authorities as the kingpin of gambling in the Capital district, his wife, Jessica, 23, and his brother, Melvin, 40, of Brooklyn, were among those indicted yesterday.

Sher was cited in yesterday's indictment on charges of promoting gambling and possession of gambling records relating to sports betting (bookmaking) and policy operation (numbers) at four locations in Albany. He is named individually in one indictment, in two with his wife, and in two others with Crawford.

Martini allegedly accepted more than $5,000 in sports bets on May 20 and May 28.

Melvin Sher is charged with accepting more than $5,000 in sports bets on June 24. He also is under indictment for an alleged $75 million gambling operation in Nassau County.

Crawford is charged with possession of gambling records and promoting, and Lord is accused of possessing more than 500 policy bets.

Lafayette Avenue, Kingston, Philip Lord 59, of 46 Wood Terrace, Slingerlands, and Charles H. Crawford, 36, of 3035 Lone Pine Drive, Guilderland.

Sher also faces a charge of conspiracy in Greene County that stemmed from the alleged attempt to extort $15,000 from Chris Rienzo, operator of a Kingston delicatessen several months ago.

Sher was cited in yesterday's indictment on charges of promoting gambling and possession of gambling records relating to sports betting (bookmaking) and policy operation (numbers) at four locations in Albany. He is named individually in one indictment, in two with his wife, and in two others with Crawford.

Martini allegedly accepted more than $5,000 in sports bets on May 20 and May 28.

Melvin Sher is charged with accepting more than $5,000 in sports bets on June 24. He also is under indictment for an alleged $75 million gambling operation in Nassau County.

Crawford is charged with possession of gambling records and promoting, and Lord is accused of possessing more than 500 policy bets.

Kulseng is charged with disorderly conduct interfering with governmental administration, and resisting arrest. The charges stem from an incident occurring outside Kulseng's place of business in New Paltz, a popular local tavern called The Homestead, early the morning of Sept. 29.

Kulseng has asserted the charges against him are political, and has charged he is being harassed because of his political involvement.

Hurley State Police today reported the arrests of two men on charges of driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated. One was said to be a second offender.

Trooper Norman L. Kilfoyle cited Billie E. Weiss, of Napanoch, on a felony count, a second offender. Weiss was arraigned before Hurley Town Justice Chester DuMont, who released the man pending a hearing on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. The arrest was made near Hurley.

Jack Anderson Says

Gas Companies Stall Octane Posting

WASHINGTON — The big-brand gas companies are squeezing millions of dollars out of the motorists by delaying and distorting the facts about octanes.

Here's the latest report on the games the gas lobby plays:

Last December 30, the Federal Trade Commission announced that gas octanes would have to be posted on service station pumps by June 27. The so-called "research" rating system, used by many auto firms as a guide to new owners on the best octane for their cars, was prescribed.

The octane is important. The use of unnecessarily high octane costs the average motorist $50 extra a year for gas that has no additional benefits. Worse, octane that is too high for the car spews lead emissions into the air. On the other hand, too low octane belches out hydrocarbons and nitrogen oxides.

Therefore, economizers and conservationists alike hailed the FTC's ruling. But the politically powerful oilmen know there's more than one way to skin a bureaucrat. Texaco quietly persuaded the bureaucrats at the FTC that company scientists had developed a better way to rate octanes. Implementing the Texaco plan meant not only delaying the rating requirement for months but also confusing the consumers who were accustomed to the old rating system.

Yet the FTC scrapped the June 27 deadline and announced on August 19 that the Texaco plan would become law of the land unless the consumers put forward some insurmountable arguments.

The Consumer Federation of America, Environmental Defense Fund, and Center for Science in the Public Interest raised some loud, if not insurmountable, arguments. The FTC staff is now going over all the new data in secret. Then the entire review process by the commissioners must begin all over again.

The postponement of the octane postings, meanwhile, is saving the oil companies an estimated $25 million a month, which comes out of the pockets of the motorists who overbuy their octanes.

Ralph Nader and Rep. Chet Holifield, D-Calif., have traded angry charges over the establishment of a federal consumer protection agency.

The flashing, young consumer advocate accused the crusty, old congressional veteran of gutting the agency's powers. In Nader's view, Holifield sought to make the consumer agency a hollow symbol at President Nixon's bidding.

"(Holifield) has been playing the White House's game," snapped Nader.

"Nader's cry of 'wolf, wolf' against anyone who disagrees with him will soon cease to cause alarm or attention," Holifield growled back.

Our own behind-the-scenes investigation bears out Nader's charges. The 67-year-old Holifield, once a flashing young liberal himself, has grown gray and grumpy and has lost his former zeal for reform.

When they were both young California Congressmen, Holifield and Nixon slugged it out in many House battles and political campaigns. But this summer, they flew to California together, the best of buddies, on the luxurious presidential Air Force One.

As they winged across the country, the President urged Holifield to water down the bill setting up a consumer protection agency.

Holifield was so certain he could railroad a weak bill through his Government Operations Committee that he wrote a press release about the committee vote before it was taken.

Premature Release

The release began: "The House Committee on Government Operations today approved unanimously . . . But when seven of the members either voted against reporting out the bill or merely voted 'present,' Holifield had to have his press release changed in hand-writing.

Holifield, of course, led the fight behind closed doors against a strong consumer protection agency. At one secret meeting, he actively advocated letting the agency argue cases before state bodies as a concession to the consumers.

But when President Nixon's man on the committee, Rep. Frank Horton, R-N.Y., argues holily over even this little scrap for public, Holifield abruptly reversed himself and backed Horton.

He also tried to pressure Speaker Carl Albert into accepting the watered-down bill at a secret meeting in the Speaker's ornate office. Albert kept insisting he wanted "the strongest possible bill" and urging "I would like to get the bill out on the floor."

At one point, Holifield thought he had wangled a commitment from Albert to accept the milquetoast measure. "Well," blurted Holifield, "then can I tell the President that you will support the bill?"

This was an inadvertent slip that Holifield, indeed, was working with the White House as Nader had charged.

Footnote: The Democrats who sold out the consumer behind closed doors besides Holifield were Congressmen L.H. Fountain, N.C.; John Monagan, Conn.; Don Fuqua, Fla.; and notably, Ed Garmatz, Md., whose power almost matches Holifield's and who failed to show up for a single vote, simply turning over his proxy to Holifield.

The GOP assault against the consumer was led by John Erlenborn, Ill. A formerly fervent Republican supporter of a strong bill, Rep. Flo Dwyer, N.J., collapsed in the clutch. Two courageous Republicans, Ogden Reid, N.Y., and Paul McCloskey, Calif., cast most of their votes for the consumer, and Gilbert Fude, Md., sided with them on several key issues.

A Striking Solution

WASHINGTON — Although President Nixon has invoked the Taft-Hartley Act as a first step toward halting the walkout on the west coast by members of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Unions, this is no assurance that the dispute will be settled.

The law permits the court to order an 80-day back-to-work period. The theory is that this will cool off the battle and hopefully give time for the settlement of the dispute.

But President Nixon himself, who helped to write the Taft-Hartley Act when he was a member of Congress in 1947, realizes that the statute has weaknesses. The 80-day period cannot be repeated. If a strike isn't ended during that time, the President is left without any way of dealing with the controversy by any form of coercion. Indeed, it has been claimed that the unions would use the 80 days not to negotiate a settlement but to strengthen themselves for an even longer strike.

The President appointed a fact-finding board of five members to report to him on the actual status of the negotiations and the nature of the parleys thus far as well as the effects of the work stoppages on the public. This information is needed by a federal court as the basis for an injunction to halt the strike.

Mr. Nixon, of course may later ask also that the action be extended to cover the dock strikes on the east coast and gulf ports and that negotiations be undertaken earnestly by all sides in these major tieups during the next 80 days.

The west coast strike has already lasted 96 days, and there has been no progress made. Injury to the transportation of freight, particularly farm products, has been estimated as considerable, and business generally has been adversely affected by the slowdowns.

Since Congress has never enacted a law which would give the President the power to require both parties to accept the results of an arbitration, there is no way after the 80-day cooling-off period for the government to force an end to the dock strikes or any other big work stoppages unless Congress enacts laws providing for compulsory arbitration.

Disinterested observers, however, have for many years argued that some tribunal ought to be able to determine the equities or inequities of proposed settlements and render a judgment which would have a binding effect on parties to a major labor dispute. No such compulsory steps have ever been taken, and the net result is that each side claims that the other is unfair. As a consequence, long-drawn-out work stoppages often follow. In the end, heavy losses are incurred by the employer and by the employees.

One wonders why some tribunal established by the government could not render a judgment, it could be that a portion of the demands made by labor might be left for settlement after the employers have had an opportunity to measure their labor costs against their sales in the ensuing period. Perhaps if revenues turned out to be larger than what had been estimated, some provision might be made for profit-sharing.

The difficulty with the present system is that employers have to guess what their sales might be and what income they might get when they move their prices upward to meet higher labor expenses. If the results are poor for the employer, employees don't suffer very much. If provision were made, however, to limit wage increases to a fixed level but to pay additional sums if adequate profits were achieved during the next contract period, labor unions might also be willing to take some of the risks.

The whole problem nowadays is one of guessing. Labor leaders, moreover, feel they must insist upon higher and higher wages even though they know that perhaps the employers are taking chances in making contracts which will require the raising of prices and sometimes bring lower and lower sales.

The need is for a formula that will protect the members of labor unions and give them some assurance of better pay if management can afford it and at the same time permit the companies to offer their wares to the public at reasonable prices. The present system has brought more and more strikes even as the national economy has grown in size. What is necessary as a way to make strikes of limited duration is a means of giving both sides a fair deal.

Italian Voters at Crossroads

Far in advance of the December presidential election in Italy — a NATO member — antagonisms are growing in the face of a government that is all but paralyzed, a government many Italians bitterly call a soufflé.

The gibe refers to a famous comparison you hear there: that, like a soufflé, an Italian government's fall is as inevitable as it is total. Then follow tears, recriminations, promises for the future and, ultimately, reconciliations. After a number of false starts a new government of old faces, which everyone knows will collapse again, is formed by the soufflé bakers.

But now, in a growing mood of "enough is enough," the dissatisfactions are clearly getting out of hand.

The Italians are really wonderful people — marvelously warm, creative, hard-working and with a remarkable and salutary sense of family loyalty. But for generations on end they have been bludgeoned by bad government. In simple truth, no government in Italy ever has been as good as the sum of the people. When five-times Italian Premier Giovanni Giolitti was asked if it wasn't terribly difficult to govern Italians he replied, "Not difficult; only useless." This is one explanation for that.

Today's government under President Giuseppe Saragat is a coalition Premier Emilio Colombo put together around his Christian Democratic party, Italy's largest. But both that party and the second largest party are internally split, and these and most of the coalition splinter groups have become fungoid and rotten in their rivalries, rank materialism and ignoble fear. Bustarella (little envelope) means graft and corruption in Italy — its meaning taken from the envelope in which the money passes. Both are rife and growing as the vast bureaucracy grows. This bureaucracy has actually become a third force which has long since quit trying to make friends with either the public or the government and simply takes to the streets in its own disruptive type of civil war.

Meanwhile, the Italian Communist party, the largest in the Western world, rejoices in the floundering coalition and adds its wily fuels. It has achieved a blocking position in the Parliament that amounts to rule by the wreckers — to Moscow's glee. For the U.S.S.R. is pressing harder and harder for anarchy in Italy, and the coalition's weaknesses are all water on the Red Wheel.

I was in Italy for the June 14 parochial elections. The relatively new neo-Fascist Italian Socialist Movement (MSI), led by Giorgio Almirante, made, literally, sensational gains. These were played down in Europe's press but I can assure you our American Embassy experts were privately amazed.

The gains showed that millions who have stood with the moderate Christian Democratic party for 20 politically difficult years defected to the MSI in the largest shift since early postwar 1948.

The MSI's increased support came from a surprisingly broad spectrum of Italians. They were protesting against what many call the "carefree childishness" of the Christian Democratic Party and its immense backlog of unfinished social reforms, the perennial governmental paralysis, an economic recession in certain areas, the growing inflation, a two-year record-breaking strike wave (290 million man-hours lost last year) and mounting violence form a virulent Moscow-directed army of vicious Communist bully boys under active Communist party leader Enrico Berlinguer.

Hidden beneath the people's antagonisms there are also recurrent indications of a possible military takeover, as in Greece, against the threat of a Red Star over Italy.

The Italian Forzarmada is a branch of the army. It is directly under the Defense Minister and has access to the arms and armor, most of which, incidentally, has been supplied by the United States. And the carabinieri have outposts in every Italian and Sicilian town and village. Locally based, in each of Italy's 93 provinces, it is a ready-made force for military intervention.

Clearly, Italy is a nation which today, above all, desires stable government. Some Italians look across the Adriatic and see this in the form of Tito's Red Yugoslavia. Others wonder if the answer may be the model of the military junta in Greece.

The predominant question is whether this crisis-inflicted NATO ally will weather in an orderly way a national presidential election, face a revolution of unknown dimensions, or experience a takeover by the Forzarmada, the carabinieri and the Italian Army.

Flat-Foot Epidemic

If the situation weren't so unfunny, it could be said that New York City's flat-grant system touched off an epidemic of flatfeet that became so costly that the city was forced to put its foot down. The whole episode is a study in the complexities of some of these federal aid programs, the ease with which the original intent of the programs can be subverted, and the ever-present willingness of a certain number of human beings to grab what they're not entitled to.

It was back in 1968 that the city got off on the wrong foot—in the view of some of its welfare recipients—by halting special allowances for such items as clothing and shoes, and adopting the flat-grant plan. Suddenly cases of flatfeet spiraled to an unheard of 17,000 a month, each attested to by podiatrists participating in the Medicaid program. Thus, by prescription, persons who would have bought ordinary shoes under the special allowance plan were being fitted to expensive orthopedic shoes that Medicaid was paying for—just as it was also paying for the podiatrists' fees.

With its annual shoe bill soaring to $4 million a year, the city health department smelled—well, smelled a "pes non hygienica," as some of the prescriptions read. What that means is "dirty feet." (Other prescriptions read "pes planus"—that's the flat ones.) So an undercover agent was sent out and infiltrated a welfare rights group and he heard speakers advise seeing such-and-such a foot doctor if they wanted new shoes.

In fairness, it should be noted that a very small percentage of the podiatrists were party to the movement.

So the city subsequently informed the foot doctors of a new procedure: Obtain prior authorization from the health department for all Medicaid shoe prescriptions; previously this was required only if the shoes cost over $40. Just like magic, the flatfeet epidemic eased—went from 17,000 a month to 7,000. The "dirty feet" prescription was also scrubbed, so that today application for shoes are down to between 2,000 and 3,000 a month.

It is abuses of these complex governmental programs whose humanitarian goals are negated by the abuses that seem inevitably to crop up and tarnish the original objectives and purposes.

Dealing With Thieu

An Oriental proverb goes something like this, "Listen to the sound of one hand clapping."

That one hand you'll hear clapping will be that of President Thieu as he counts what his election officials claim was an overwhelming victory at the South Vietnam polls. A hollower victory couldn't be imagined.

Regardless of whether the vote was 95 per cent for the President or something less than that, whether or not it was rigged, Mr. Thieu, to all intents and purposes, has been returned to the Presidential Palace in Saigon for another four years. Americans must resign themselves and start thinking of how to continue their plans and still work with him to bring about the end of the war in an orderly fashion, albeit a speedy one.

General Thieu is now the chosen leader of South Vietnam, and it is with him we must deal to continue the program of U.S. troop withdrawal and Vietnamization. Also, whatever warfare remains we must assure ourselves he is prosecuting it with full vigor, and with his own troops.

The hope has been during all these years of fighting and the spilling of American blood that South Vietnam would rule itself under a form of democracy. Sunday's election sent that hope glimmering. We now know that, as Rudyard Kipling wrote, "East is East and West is West, and never the twain shall meet." Having fallen far short of instilling the ideas of freedom for man as we know them in the South Vietnam way of life, we can at least be thankful that our other goal there, to keep communism out, has not failed, not for the present, at least.

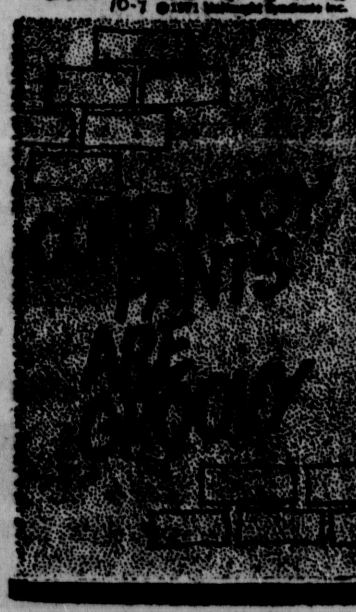

The people of South Vietnam have spoken, in their own fashion, of course, and the U.S. must accept their verdict. We can now only hope that nothing will transpire in any way to block or even delay the withdrawal of our troops. Meanwhile, we must put as good a face as possible on the election of President Thieu.

TEEN SCENE: On Prying Your Foot Out of Your Mouth

By LEI

It's happened to everyone. You're chattering away cheerfully and all of a sudden you realize that your words are filtering through your toes again—there is your foot in your mouth. You whisper cattily to your date, "Doesn't that chick in the fuchsia hot pants over there realize that she looks like a salami?" and he says, "I'll mention it to her tomorrow. That's my sister." You remark to your mother that kids are the only ones who don't look like they're wearing halloween costumes in long skirts and then she tells you she bought a maxidress. You complain to a classmate that a mongoloid idiot would be funnier than a movie you'd watched, and then learn that he has a mongoloid brother. There you are, licking raw eggs out of your eyes again.

Don't worry, you aren't the only one born with a silver foot in your mouth. The fellow you just crashed in front of has said just such things himself. There are only two solutions—think before you speak, and if you forget to do that, rescue the situation as well as you can and forget about it.

The more you talk, the bigger the chances are that you'll say the wrong thing. If you have the habit of babbling out of sheer nervousness, you're in big trouble. When you're out on a first date with the new fellow or meeting the school principal for the first time, remember a poised smile will go over a lot better than a witty remark that comes out all wet.

It's best to avoid "humor" concerning religion, handicaps, or race. Not only can they be unkind, but they can backfire. It's very difficult to rescue the situation if you say to a friend, "The guy who bought my car tried to jaw me down to two hundred dollars for it," and he replies, "Did you know my mother is Jewish?" Or worse, he doesn't say anything, and you just don't see much of him anymore.

When you realize you've polished your shoes with your tongue again, try to rescue the situation as gracefully as possible. If it's beyond all hope, acknowledge your blunder and then try to change the subject to something less loaded. If you say to the new kid in class "Look at that wreck of a car, some people will drive anything," and he says "That's my car," you have two choices. If you can get by with it, say you were speaking about that remodeled 1926 hearse that just went by, not the one he owns. If you've definitely indicated his, say "Forgive me, I'm jealous, I still have to come to school on my skateboard," and then invite him to lunch, if you're still hungry after swallowing a main course of crow.

If you try to keep your humor constructive, and avoid sweeping personal remarks, you run less of a chance of sweeping yourself right onto your backside. You tell a girl, "I like long hair like yours. These girls with the real short hair look like porcupines to me." And she replies sweetly, "Actually, I'm wearing a fall. I got a short haircut two years ago, and my hair grows very slowly." If she's a good sport she'll realize you were just trying to make points, but you'll feel like you roller-skated downstairs.

In anger, sometimes, you may make remarks that cut more deeply than we meant them to. Involved in a fender-bender accident, a teenager yelled at the other driver. "You blind idiot, didn't you see the red light?" The driver of the other car put his arm around his blind, retard son beside him on the front seat and said, "I'm driving, not my son." The incident shook the teenager much worse than the accident.

Finally, if you've ever made a blunder, show the mercy to others that you'd like to have had. The classmate who giggles about the "crazy old drunk" on the street may not know there is an alcoholism problem in your family—so don't point it out . . . If your date says that this cake is even better than most of them you bake, bite your tongue and don't tell him that you were in a hurry and got this one at the bakery—he was trying to compliment you, after all. Try to consider the intent as well as the effect—the blunder probably hurts the fellow who made it worse than it does you. What would you want someone to do if you'd been the one with a faceful of your own boot?

Books Are Out at 'Alternative School'

HONOLULU (UPI)

Students at St. Louis High School are into everything but their books on Wednesdays.

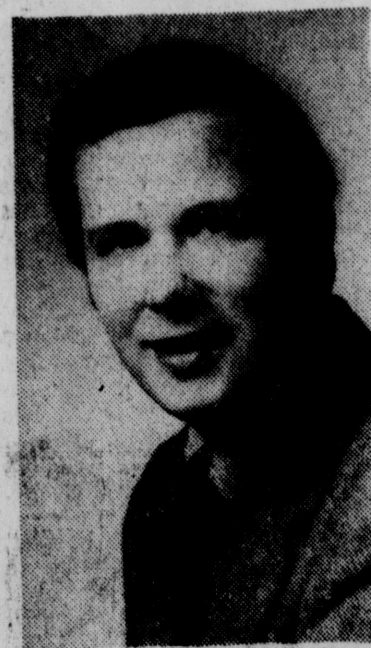

They're touring banks and breweries, rapping about drugs and sex, playing instruments and painting. It's all part of "alternative school," an entire day set aside for exploring educational dimensions not possible under traditional schedules.

St. Louis, a private Catholic high school, launched "alternative school" this fall on a one-year trial basis. But Ray Conrad, the curriculum specialist who developed and coordinated the program, said the response has been so enthusiastic he hopes to turn it into a twice a week experience for the 1972-73 school year.

St. Louis is the only school in the state to start a one free day a week program on a regular basis, and other schools are keeping close tabs on its success.

"Wherever time is needed or new ideas are to be explored, alternative school makes it possible," Conrad said. "The spectrum of educational choices is broadened and deepened by this method. The basic ideas are to maximize the student's

Guidance Aid Offered Here

RAYMOND A. WITHEY

KINGSTON Associate director of admissions for Green Mountain College, Raymond A. Withey III will be visiting Kingston schools Wednesday to meet with guidance counselors and talk with students.

—chance to make choices and challenge and excite the educational appetite."

Each Wednesday is set aside to provide an uninterrupted block of time "for students and faculty to explore activities they wouldn't have time for under a five-day-a-week regimented schedule," Conrad said.

Last spring, the curriculum specialist, who also teaches sociology, conducted a four-day experimental "alternative school" program to assess faculty and student reaction to the idea and determine areas of interest. The result is a full day of optional activities, including tours of businesses, informal courses dealing with subjects not ordinarily in a high school curriculum such as celestial navigation and palmistry and a wide range of musical, artistic, athletic, scientific and cultural events. As many as 45 different activities are offered.

Since attendance is only taken at the beginning and end of the day, there is ample opportunity for truancy between. But Conrad said to the best of his knowledge, the number of truants has been surprisingly low.

Conrad has found that most of the teachers are excited about the program and are anxious to participate. The informal groups are led by teachers, out-of-school guests and even students who are particularly proficient in some area.

"There are about 25 students in a class on an average school day," Conrad said. "But during alternative school, there may be as few as six in a group or even less. It gives the kids and teachers an opportunity they wouldn't ordinarily have to get to know each other."

Although teachers have one day a week less to cover the amount of academic ground they have to in a year, Conrad said "alternative school" has not resulted in excessive homework on the other four days.

"We've found the enthusiasm generated by Wednesdays free day has carried over into the classroom for the rest of the week. The students pay more attention and the teachers are able to teach more in less time," Conrad said.

Talent Search Is On

The nation's annual search for young scientific talent is expected to generate an increasing number of projects in the environmental, ecological and behavioral sciences, it was predicted at the start of the 31st Westinghouse Science Talent Search.

Edward G. Sherburne Jr., director of Science Service, the national organization that administers Science Talent Search, said that students' concerns in recent years with the relevance of science to human problems has stimulated a growing number of projects oriented toward their solution.

A total of $87,500 in scholarships and awards are at stake as thousands of high school seniors throughout the United States prepare to compete in the Search. Science Service, which administers the program through its Science Clubs of America, has mailed rules and instructions for the competition to more than 50,000 principals and science teachers of secondary, private and denominational schools.

A panel of judges will select an honors group of approximately 300 students from the total number of entries. From the honors group, 40 finalists will be selected, all of whom will receive expense-paid five-day trips next spring to Washington, D.C., where the final competition is held each year. From the 40 finalists, 10 students will win the major scholarship prizes. The top award is a $10,000 four-year scholarship. The other scholarships are: two for second place of $8,000 each; three for $6,000, and four of $4,000 each.

The 30 finalists who do not win scholarships will receive single-payment awards of $250 each. All members of the honors group who do not win top scholarships are specially recommended for scholarships to leading colleges and universities.

Scholarships and awards for the young scientist and other financial aid that makes Science Talent Search possible are provided by the Westinghouse Educational Foundation, which is supported by Westinghouse Electric Corporation.

Explaining the general rules of the Search, Mr. Sherburne said that contestants write a report on an independent scientific research project which they have undertaken. Schools also submit scholastic records for each entrant along with

Remember: No Man With 'Class' Likes a 'Pushover'

DEAR ABBY: I am a 28-year-old unmarried woman. I have never been promiscuous.

I recently became acquainted with a very attractive eligible man, and was thrilled when he asked me out. This man had "class." He was good-looking, charming, well-mannered, intelligent and financially secure.

On our very first date he said, "I don't like to play games. If we like each other, I'll expect you to play house with me, so don't waste a lot of time with that hard-to-get routine."

I told him I thought he was crude. He said he was just being "honest" and I should appreciate being told from the start what he expected.

I told him I thought he was "too honest" for me. Needless to say I never heard from him again.

I think I could have really cared for this man if he hadn't been so blunt. Was I wrong to have sent him on his way?

HAVE MY PRIDE
DEAR ABBY: No. And don't be surprised if you hear from him again. No man with "class" likes a pushover.

DEAR ABBY: Here's my story: I was a young divorcee with three children, ages 4, 6 and 7. I married a widower

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

with two children, then 7 and 8 years old.

Now, seven years later, my husband tells me he has drawn up his will, leaving everything to me and HIS children. When I asked him what would happen to MY children if I were to die first, he replied, "I've done enough for YOUR children already."

Abby, I feel that I have done enough for HIS children already, too. I have also done enough for him because when I married him he had nothing and now he has a big business.

My ex-husband has never contributed anything to the support of my children, and he never will.

This has been bothering me to the point of where I am afraid to travel for fear something will happen to me, and my children will be left unprotected.

I would sure like help on this matter. But I can't go to any lawyer in this town as my husband is very well-known. I don't want to embarrass him, and I don't want the whole town to know my business.

PLAIN WORRIED

DEAR ABBY: You need to be advised of your children's rights, if indeed they have any. And if they don't, you'd better find out now. Go to a lawyer and tell him your problem. Lawyers respect confidences, so don't worry about "embarrassing" your husband or being talked about.

DEAR ABBY: I am an 18-year-old girl with a problem

(Hear Dear Abby Mon. thru Sat. at 9:25 a.m. WKNY-1490)

I hope you won't think it's too minor to bother with. I'm fairly good-looking, have lots of friends, and don't have any trouble attracting a guy's attention and getting him to like me. My problem is that as soon as I get a guy to really like me, I don't want him anymore. E, that time he's already asked me to go steady, and I've said okay because I just hate to hurt his feelings. But I end up hurting his feelings anyway because I have to break up with him.

If I do go after a guy and don't get him, it just kills me to see him with another girl, even though I know if I did get him I'd end up hating him, too.

What is the matter with me?

NEVER SATISFIED
DEAR NEVER: Face it. You enjoy the chase more than the prize. Some people never outgrow it, but I hope you do, because there is little happiness for those who want only the unattainable.

CONFIDENTIAL TO THE FRUSTRATED WIFE OF MY FIVE BY FIVE: From your letter, I would say that you have done everything to a loving wife can possibly do. And don't worry about his ruining the furniture. You'll be able to buy new furniture from the money you'll collect from his life insurance.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

New Saturday Art Classes for Children

In response to community requests, Young People's Studio of Woodstock has announced an addition to its present program of children's art classes. A new Saturday class for children, ages four to five, will be held from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. beginning Saturday, Oct. 16. The children will be presented with a revolving program of painting, drawing, sculpture, printmaking, mobiles and crafts, in an atmosphere of informality. Classes are small, about 12 children in the group, with the bulk of instruction geared specifically to the needs of each individual child. The Studio provides all of the basic materials.

Both the Studio's approach, and all of the various projects enjoyed by the children have been developed by the well-known artist and Art Students League instructor, Bruce Dorfman, in collaboration with his wife Jeanne, director of Young People's Studio. In addition to classes for four to five year olds, the Studio provides classes for children six to eight years old and nine to 12. These classes are under the guidance and instruction of artist-printmaker, Suzanne Blatter. Also offered at Young People's Studio are classes for Teenagers and Adult Beginners. These classes are under the guidance and instruction of artist, David Newman.

Registration for all classes remains open on a year round basis, and students may register at any time. For further information concerning schedules and tuition, contact Mrs. Bruce Dorfman in Woodstock.

KHS Routs Sawyers

KINGSTON Young Bill Krempel was second in 11:39, followed by Keith White, Steve Schallenkamp and Jim Kwasnowski.

It was the first time Kwasnowski finished in the top five and it guaranteed the freshman harrier a varsity letter.

Four more Kingston speedsters were next, although they didn't figure in the scoring, the shoutout already having been assured.

The quartet of young Lions were Dan Kelley, Bruce Chambers, Jeff Robinson and Mark Davis.

Pete Timmons of Saugerties was tenth in 12:31. Other Sawyer scorers were Don Brown, Jeff Schoemer, Rich Franchini, and Nat Brand.

It was an impressive showing for the Maroons, who were recording their first shutout in several years and boosting their mark to 4-0.

Kingston has an eight meet win streak over two seasons. The Maroons have a big one coming up on Tuesday when they travel to Ketcham, one of the DCSL powerhouses.

The results:

Scoring Punch Missing

Maroons, NFA Tie, 1-1

KINGSTON "This was certainly no win," Kingston High School soccer Coach John Hunter said after his team had tied with Newburgh Free Academy, 1-1, in Loughran Park Friday.

"I have to say I'm disappointed with this one. After we tied Poughkeepsie I was proud of the boys, but today they just played kick and chase instead of working the ball.

"We dominated the whole first half. We could have scored 100 times. Then in the third period Newburgh came out strong and we couldn't do much until the overtime when we took five shots on goal."

Kingston did score early and appeared to be on its way to a big win when at 2:40, Charlie Barton sent a cross to John Gorman who booted it past Alex Spirotos. After that it was nothing but zeroes for the Maroons.

Newburgh finally managed to tie it up after being thwarted by a tenacious KHS defense at 4:13 of the third. Tulio Rivera lofted a cross to winger Jose Ramirez. The NFA forward sent one towards the goal and Maroon netminder Geoff Seeger nearly brushed it aside. He managed to tip it, but not far enough. The ball hit the post and bounded in.

Coach Hunter had praise for David Nugent and Steve Davis, a pair of young defensive aces. "Nugent caught up to that Rivera kid a few times on break-aways and Davis was all over the field doing a good job."

The KHS mentor figures that the obvious answer to his team's recent woes would be an increase in offensive productivity. He pointed out that his high scorers have been silent in the last two games while the defense has done all it could to hold down the score.

On Kingston forward, junior John Robinson, scored six times in the Maroons' first three games, but has been blanked since.

KHS returns to DCSL competition on Tuesday at Ketcham and Hunter talked about the Maroons' chances for title honors in that loop.

"We're 2-2-1 and I think Arlington has first pretty much wrapped up. But in the DCSL the first place team meets the second place team in a county championship playoff for a trophy. We still have a good shot of getting into that game."

Kingston is 3-2-2 overall.

Savoir Laying Claim to Honor

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI)—geldings on a mile track in the Savoir, in French, is a verb meaning "to know." And almost duplicated it in the second heat with a 1:58.2.

"He was sounder and stronger today than in the Hambletonian," driver Jimmy Arthur said. "And he sure hasn't been rested too much." Arthur added, noting that Savoir had raced six times in the month prior to the Futurity.

One of those outings was a victory over Speedy Crown in the $102,000 Colonial at Liberty Bell.

Although it was the second Futurity win for Savoir's owners, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Buck of Allwood Stable in Fair Hills, N.J., it was the first Futurity win for veteran driver Arthur.

It's Okay with me," the quiet Arthur said. He has been driving for 23 years, but the closest he had come to a Futurity win was a third place overall finish with Formal Notice last year.

Glenby Farm's Big Keystone Hilliard came in second in both heats, while Castleton Farm's Hoot Speed was third both times.

Savoir earned $34,878.24 for his day's work, running his season's total to $194,132 and his career mark to $237,885.

"This one meant more than the first time," Buck said in the winner's circle. "Then we didn't know what it meant to win a Futurity."

BALTIMORE (UPI)—The defending champion and favored Baltimore Orioles gave Dave McNally, a southpaw with a baffling collection of pitches, the job of silencing the thunder of the Pittsburgh Pirates' bats today in the opening game of the 1971 baseball World Series.

Opposing McNally before an expected capacity crowd of 52,137 at Memorial Stadium was Dock Ellis, a hard-throwing righthander whose victory last Sunday started the Pirates on their way to triumph in the National League playoffs.

The Orioles, who are riding a winning streak of 14 games including three straight over the Oakland A's in the American League playoffs, were 7-5 favorites to win the series on the basis of their brilliant pitching staff and home-field edge in four of the potential seven games.

But Danny Murtaugh, the tough little Irishman who manages the Pirates, set the style for his National League champions by declaring:

"We're not about to concede to anybody that we're not the best team in baseball."

The move by Baltimore manager Earl Weaver in naming McNally, a lefthander, as his starting pitcher in the 1 p.m. EDT game was the opening tactical move of the Series—one that Weaver said he wouldn't explain "until this is all over and we see whether it works."

The obvious but unspoken explanation was that Weaver hoped the lefty pitcher would keep Pirate lefty sluggers Richie Hebner and Al Oliver, the big hitters for the Pirates in their four-game victory over the Giants, on the bench.

But Murtaugh indicated that maybe Weaver's move wouldn't keep Hebner and Oliver out of the starting lineup.

"I won't make up my mind about who'll play those positions until just before the game," said Murtaugh, who celebrated his 54th birthday yesterday. "It depends a lot on the kind of feeling I get about it."

Puckishly, Murtaugh added with a grin, "a lot of my managing depends on my feelings."

Weaver gave one hint on his selection of McNally when he ticked off on his fingers the different kinds of pitches he throws:

"Fast ball, curve ball, slider—and then he also kind of turns the ball over and makes it move away from a righthanded batter."

Weaver is all set with his pitchers for the next two games, too, as befits the first major league manager since 1920 who can list four 20-game winners on his staff. For game No. 2 Sunday it will be righthander Jim Palmer and for game No. 3 at Pittsburgh Tuesday left-hander Mike Cuellar. That leaves, for the moment, 20-game winner Pat Dobson high and dry without a scheduled start, just as he was in the A.L. playoffs.

"The fourth game pitcher will be either McNally or Dobson, depending on what happens in the first game," said Weaver.

Although many experts were sizing up the Series in a capsule as Orioles' pitching vs. Pirates' hitting, Weaver and Murtaugh both disputed that description.

"We think the Pirates have some pretty good pitching arms out there," said Weaver. "As a matter of fact, we think they've got better arms than the Cincinnati Reds did last year and that runs will be harder to get off them. Remember, last year (when the Orioles won the series in five games) the Reds had several pitchers injured."

"As for hitting, well, seven of the eight guys in our starting lineup outside of the pitcher can pop the ball. They've got seven hitters, we've got seven," Murtaugh rallied quickly to the defense of his pitchers. "I know people have criticized our pitchers, but all I've got to say is this," Murtaugh said, "these pitchers carried us to the division championship, they carried us to the playoff championship, and, God willing, they'll carry us to the Series championship, too."

The Orioles' main worry after the sweep over the A's was the condition of slugger Boog Powell's right wrist, a season-long pain which he aggravated sliding into second base last Sunday. Powell has the wrist strapped, but worry about it appeared to be easing in the Baltimore camp.

"Who knows?" smiled the Oriole giant, who, fortunately for mankind, is an amiable giant. "I may even hit better with it."

The outspoken Ellis, who has found himself in print a few extra times during the past week because of his discontent with hotel rooms assigned him, admitted he changed rooms twice the other night in his hotel here.

"Eight other guys did, too," Ellis pointed out, "but somehow I'm the one that gets mentioned."

Murtaugh names Steve Blass as his Sunday pitcher but didn't name a third game pitcher. One unanswered question is the condition of Nelson Briles, the Pirates' most effective pitcher in the last three weeks of the season who reinjured a hamstring muscle warming up and had to be replaced as the starting pitcher in the third game of the playoffs.

Briles worked out at Memorial Stadium Friday and reported himself ready—"I really cut loose, and I felt fine."

The other third game candidate is Bob Johnson, the fellow who replaced Briles and won the go-ahead game against Juan Marichal.

McNally had an unsettling experience Thursday when his young son Jeff fell off his bike and cut one arm open to the bone for a distance of nine inches. McNally spent several hours at the hospital with the youngster while the wound was repaired.

Unlike a week ago, when rain here forced a one-day delay in the start of the A.L. playoffs, the weather forecast for Baltimore was excellent for the weekend.

Monday is an off day in the Series, which then shifts to Pittsburgh for the third game Tuesday afternoon and then the fourth game Wednesday night, the first night game in the history of the classic. The fifth game, if necessary, will be in Pittsburgh Thursday afternoon and the sixth and seventh, if necessary, in Baltimore Saturday and Sunday.

The probable starting lineups for the first game of the World Series Saturday between the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Baltimore Orioles:

Stargell lf

The National Hockey League has launched its season with a couple of wild and woolly Western shootouts featuring minutes.

At Vancouver, the usual wild bunch of 15,570 turned out to see more third period madness.

Center Darryl Fittler's goal of Friday's two games as Los Angeles and California battled to a 4-4 tie and Toronto nudged Vancouver 3-2. Both games were 1-1 after two periods.

A ticket snafu was blamed for the opening night crowd of only 5,994, but they saw Al McDonough and Mike Byers fired goals in the last three minutes to get the tie. Earlier, the Leafs thought they had a win as Captain Carol Vadnais, Bob Sheehan and Don O'Donoghue tallied last stanza tallies to build up a 4-2 lead after 57 minutes.

THE BAUBLE—Stan Smith (L) of the U.S. and Ilie Nastase (R) of Romania, the best each team has to offer, shown with the Davis Cup, symbolic of world amateur tennis supremacy. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Make or Break For Romania

By ROYAL BRIGHTBILL
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — Much more experience than Action in the Davis Cup Smith and Van Dillen. challenge round at Julian J. If Romania loses the doubles Clark Stadium today will make event, considered its strongest or break the Romanian effort point, the East Europeans will to capture the coveted tennis trophy from the United States. The best of five tournament. If Long Frank Froehling of the Romanians lose both Florida and brooding Ion Tiriac of Brasov, Romania were to finish the second singles match of the tournament, which was deadlocked when darkness forced a halt at the clay court Friday.

Tiriac also was to team up with Ilie Nastase, who lost to Stan Smith 7-5, 6-3 and 6-1 in the first match, for the doubles match against Smith and Eric Van Dillen of San Mateo, Calif. Froehling had to battle back from a two-set deficit to remain in contention with Tiriac, a 32-year-old former Olympic hockey player. The match was tied 6-6 in the fifth set when play was stopped.

Tiriac took the first two sets 6-3 and 6-1 and Froehling had the next two, 6-1 and 6-3, in the three hour and 40 minute marathon.

Nastase and Tiriac are considered one of the most powerful clay court combinations in the world and have much more experience than Smith and Van Dillen.

If Romania loses the doubles match, the East Europeans will have virtually no chance to win the trophy from the United States. The best of five tournament. If the Romanians lose both matches today, the U.S. will have successfully defended the cup again.

The outlook for Romania was dimmed by the revelation that Nastase was suffering from a calcium deposit on his right elbow.

"I'm not in good shape right now, I guess," the long-haired player said after his loss to Smith. "My elbow has been giving me trouble. I didn't play my normal game."

Smith, the tall, blond Army private from Pasadena, Calif., said he was surprised at Nastase's performance in the first set when the Romanian dropped the first five games and Smith dropped his guard long enough for Nastase to take the next five.

"After winning the first set the way I did, the hard way, I settled down a little," said Smith, who had little trouble the rest of the way.

Saugerties' Tom Kramer Linebacker for RIT Club

ROCHESTER — "Tom is a very keen linebacker and has learned to read the different sets very well. He is especially good on the pass coverage."

Kramer played his high school ball at Mount Assumption academy of Plattsburgh. Last week in RIT's 41-21 win over Albany State he intercepted one pass and recovered a blocked punt to set up a touchdown.

Kramer is the middle linebacker for RIT and his coach, Tom Coughlin, is high on the 5-11, 190 pounder.

Zeesh and Lazar 11th Ranked

STONE RIDGE or three colleges from each of the 19 regions throughout the country.

JUCO Review is the official publication of the National Junior College Athletic Association. This was the highest ranking of any junior college from the northeast, and only one other northeastern school, Cumberland Community College, placed in the top third of the list.

The position ranked Ulster far above its Region XV competitors, Nassau Community College and Suffolk Community College, to whom Ulster had placed third in the regional championships held on Long Island in May. Ulster earned the privilege of the national tournament through its victory in the doubles event, as Suffolk and Nassau were the finalists in the singles event and garnered the most team points for the Region XV title.

Zeesh, graduated from Ulster in June, is now attending East Stroudsburg State College in Pennsylvania and currently is a part of the number one doubles team at their new college for their fall schedule, as well as playing number two in singles. Recently, Zeesh teamed with Pete Valano to win the ECAC Doubles Championship at Princeton.

Lazar is now in his second year at UCCO and Coach B. Edson Decker hopes Lazar will anchor the '72 team this coming spring. In the meantime, Jerry is helping Ulster athletics as a member of the cross-country team.

MORGAN HILL and a defeat. Hoboken is winless with two ties and one setback.

"With our college players missing, we will not be at full strength," said player-manager Henry Ingber. "However, we expect to have Richie Bush at center halfback and that should help."

The Kickers use eligible college players when they are available, but don't have their services when schedules conflict.

Sig Samuelsen will be at goal for the Kickers. Others besides Bush in the starting lineup figure to be Winnie Soddemann, Ken Neslund, Karl Liekoski, Bob Joyet, Jim Reinhardt, Eugene Ventriglia, Kassim Seli-motic and Karl-Peter Merzjian and Ingber.

Former Ulster Players Starring in College

STONE RIDGE — Knutsen is playing first string for the University of Rhode Island and scored three goals in one game. The Rams lost only their first game in which Knutsen did not play because of a knee injury and appear to be on their way to the Yankee Conference title, according to Coach Vizvary.

In two years at Ulster, Knutsen scored 50 goals, including 33 last fall. He won All-American honors among junior and community colleges and was picked as the outstanding athlete at Ulster last year.

Bush, a Kingston High School graduate, is playing excellent fullback for Keene State University in New Hampshire, where he has proved especially valuable on defense.

Coach Vizvary said Crawford is playing first string right wing in this fall on the Guilford College soccer team in North Carolina.

Meeting Scheduled Sunday at Utica

Kingston Wizards in State Pro League?

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

KINGSTON — The legend persists that Kingston is still a great basketball town.

Stanley Babiarz, a Utica businessman, is the latest to inquire about the possibility of a six or eight-team professional basketball league in New York State. And he wants Kingston in — badly.

Babiarz hosts an organizational meeting at Utica Sunday and he hopes to have representatives from Troy, Schenectady, Albany, Poughkeepsie — and Kingston.

Howie Davis, owner and manager of the famed Harlem Wizards, the crack black road team, and expects to attend the meeting and says "I would like to represent Kingston."

Babiarz envisions a home-and-home schedule of 14 or 16 games the first season, depending on the number of teams in the league. "Hopefully, we would start play around Thanksgiving and play Saturday and Sunday ball," he said.

The Utica businessman is general manager of the Champlain Tires Wreckers, a quintet formed three years ago and features many ex-NBA and college players.

"Ex-NBAers and college stars would form the backbone for each team," said Babiarz.

Al DeSantis, the former Schenectady sports editor who has handled area bookings for the Harlem Globetrotters and the powerful tri-city Hedrick Brewers, is said to be interested in a Schenectady franchise. DeSantis would lend substance to the league, if it ever gets off the ground.

Davis, who feels "Kingston will support a team of the proposed league calibre," is prepared to floor one of the most powerful Harlem Wizards combinations ever. Of course the team would be known as the Kingston Wizards, when and if. His league team would not play exhibitions, he said.

Davis' biggest, newest attraction is Donn Clendenon, the New York Mets slugger, who will join the team on Nov. 20 and play until spring training time.

The remainder of the roster includes former NYU and NBA player, Tony Jackson; 6-10 LeRoy Wright, Guy Hughes, Ed Willis, Tom Chapin, Nelson Bertram and Luther Green, former Long Island University star who played two years with the New York Mets.

"I cannot see any team in the league beating this type of talent," says Davis. "Most of these players are members of the Wizards second unit," Davis added. "but if the interest is there for league ball, I can spare this group."

Davis indicated he now has enough players to assemble three teams, any one of which would be capable of holding its own in the proposed state league.

"All I want is an indication that Kingston is interested in such a team," he pleads. Is Kingston interested? Time will tell.

Redskins Seek Washington Rarity

By FRED McMANE
UPI Sports Writer

The Washington Redskins open their home season this Sunday seeking to do something no professional football team from the nation's capitol has done since 1943—win four in a row at the outset.

The Redskins began with four victories, a tie and two more victories as they rode the passing of Sammy Baugh to the National Football League's Eastern Division title. The Redskins were world champions in 1955, but since that time they have not come close to winning anything.

This year, however, the Redskins boast a bonafide threat for NFL laurels under new coach George Allen. Even with star quarterback Sonny Jurgensen on the sidelines with an injury, the Redskins have opened the campaign with three successive road victories, including a 14-9 upset of highly-regarded Dallas last Sunday.

Now the hometown fans get their first look at the new Redskins Sunday when they host the Houston Oilers of the AFC. Houston, looked upon as a darkhorse candidate in the Central Division at the beginning of the season, has posted a disappointing 0-2-1 record thus far.

Statistics are with the Redskins. Washington has won its last four home openers and Allen is unbeaten in five home openers, all during his term as coach of the Los Angeles Rams.

In other Sunday games, Pittsburgh is at Cleveland, Green Bay at Detroit, Baltimore at Buffalo, Los Angeles at San Francisco, San Diego at Kansas City, Oakland at Denver, Minnesota at Philadelphia, New Orleans at Chicago, Miami at Cincinnati, the Jets at New England, and St. Louis at Atlanta.

The Giants are at Dallas in the Monday night nationally televised game.

This is only the second meeting in history between Houston and Washington, so neither team really knows what to expect from the other.

Washington's strength thus far has been its defense. The 'Skins have allowed only 36 points and have scored a surprising 74 under the leadership of sub-quarterback Bill Kilmer.

Houston, on the other hand, has had just the opposite start. The Oilers have scored just 20 points and given up 64 and have only a 13-13 tie with New Orleans last Sunday to show for three games. The Redskins have been tabbed a 10-point choice.

The winner of the Pittsburgh-Cleveland clash will take over first place in the AFC's Central Division. The Steelers have lost six in a row at Cleveland's Municipal Stadium and are only

2-1 versus the Browns since 1964. The Browns, however, are coming off a tough Monday night loss to Oakland and have Sunday and Detroit squeezing one day less to get ready. The Browns are a six-point choice.

There is a four-way tie for the Central Division of the NFC and two of the co-leaders will be squaring off at 40-0 and 20-0.

Both teams are coming off tight victories—the Packers beating Cincinnati, 20-17, last Sunday and Detroit squeezing Oakland, 41-38 — but Green Bay has a score to settle with the Lions this year. Detroit held the Packers scoreless in two games last year, beating them six over St. Louis and Elsewhere, Baltimore is 10-0, Cincinnati and Miami are rated even. Dallas is a 14-point choice over the Giants in the Monday night game.

Piccadilly: Gary vs. Jack

VIRGINIA WATER, England (AP) — South Africa's Gary Player, bidding against defending champion Jack Nicklaus for the Piccadilly World Match play title today, believes the time is coming when top golfers will regularly break 60 in tournament competition.

"All the barriers are crumbling in sport," said Player, who has won all of the major international golf tournaments.

"One of these days athletes will run a mile in under 3½ minutes and golfers will be shooting in the 50s. Nobody knows yet what can be achieved by sportsmen who learn to use their minds as much as their muscle and skill."

"We are still on the fringes of discovering the true science of such games as golf," Player expounded his philosophy as he prepared to meet

Nicklaus in the 36-hole final of the Piccadilly championship over the 6,997 yard Wentworth Course near London.

Nicklaus, from Columbus, Ohio, was the favorite to take the match play title for the second straight year and collect a first prize of $20,400. Player has won the tournament three times since its inauguration eight years ago.

The two golfing greats last met in the Piccadilly final in 1966, when Player overhauled Nicklaus 6 and 4.

"Jack will be out to give me a drubbing in view of that previous defeat," Player said, "but I'm going into the match with a feeling of optimism."

Nicklaus, leading the money race on the world's circuits this year with winnings of $207,080, said: "It's natural to want to reverse the previous result."

On the form he has shown in the first two days of the championship—one that began with eight stars in face-to-face clashes over 63 holes—Nicklaus looked formidable.

He made the final by crushing England's Neil Coles 7 and 5 Friday, while Player eliminated Bob Charles the left-hander from New Zealand, 2 and 1.

Player, who calls the Piccadilly tournament a major test of physical endurance, said his putting is immaculate but his driving leaves much to be desired.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Much care in motion is necessary if you are not to suffer the consequences of thoughtless driving, etc. Show others that you respect them and they respond in kind. Get into the philosophical studies that inspire you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Money will not solve that problem now, but adhering to principle will do so nicely. A new attitude is wise if you are to have more rapport with good friends. This is especially true where mate is concerned.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Not a good day for entertaining since you are in a petulant mood and get on nerves of others and vice versa. However, give thanks to those who have done you big favors in the past. Read your newspapers thoroughly.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Stop coming to such snap decisions and think matters over more carefully and then you will find your affairs will become more successful. Being forceful with mate is bad. Use a more diplomatic approach.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Take care you do not use unkind words when you are with friends just because you may not be feeling too well. An encouraging smile helps them as well as you. Relieve tensions easily. Show cleverness, too.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't jeopardize goodwill of others, especially higher-ups, by doing something rather foolish today or tonight. Take care not to insult others. Showing loyalty to bigwigs is your best bet now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have other interests that attract you, but look into them quietly, or you jeopardize present secure position. Check magazines, papers that give you information you want. Stop being so unyielding.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have responsibilities to meet even if it is Sunday, so get busy with them early and please others. Do not permit an attachment to force you into anything you do not approve of.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) An associate is discouraged by some situation that suddenly developed, so do your best to encourage. Civic work appeals to you, but do more studying before you get into it. Evening is a good time for this.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have work to do that requires much precision though it is a Sunday since bigwigs are very fussy now, but the profits will be worth the extra effort. Show thoughtfulness to higher-ups, also. Take it easy tonight, though.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Those who have power over your life can withdraw backing if you spend unwisely for pleasure, so stop being so extravagant now. Get busy on creative abilities. This will be far more satisfying.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those fascinating young people who is apt to be overly emotional though energetic and needs to control himself or herself and become a more practical and sensible person if the fine ability in this chart is to be used successfully during the lifetime. The field of selling is excellent here, whether male or female. A martyr complex should be discouraged while young. Give benefit of right religion.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have duties that should be attended to at once so that you derive the benefits soon after. Mate expects you to handle a certain matter well. Make sure you don't disappoint.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Eliminate a personal prejudice you have towards an associate and you soon reach a fine agreement. Listening to the views of others is wise. Then you can express your own views.

you are not apt to be articulate today. Do those errands that are important. Don't overspend or you may regret it later. Take it easy tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Your financial affairs should be first on the agenda today. Show that you are most capable in such. A good day to have repairs made on your property. Show devotion to mate.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Instead of criticizing others, see what needs improvement with yourself. Giving compliments, if merited, when out socially is wise. Do this and become more popular.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Do not leave important work that has to be done so you can go off on a pleasure tangent that is hardly worthwhile. You can help a pal who is in trouble. Show generosity, not extravagance.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Not a good day for entertaining but fine for going over plans for the future. Concentrate on both personal and business aims. Show that you have good practical ideas.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Handle those outside duties carefully and know exactly what higher-ups expect of you. Then you know how to please. Make payments that will build up a good credit rating.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You can obtain information you need from various sources easily today. A new project rolls along nicely. Do not confide what you have in mind to a newcomer at this time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can start the new week right by following the suggestions of persons you respect. A certain recreation you like is not for you. Show that you have the wisdom to drop it.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You are able today to enjoy much pleasure with persons you like. Try to please mate more and thereby make your own life happier. Show that you can be gentle and kind.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those active young people who expects quick results with everything. Be sure to teach that patience is necessary for whatever is worthwhile. Give encouragement when needed. Give your progeny a chance to express self early in life. Much ability at whatever is of an artistic nature here, or in big business. Ethics should be taught early.

'All in Family' Back on Top

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—After came in 65th, and Miss MacLaine's 66th. For the second season in a row, a curious ratings situation involves another movie star in a new ABC-TV series, Tony Curtis in "The Persuaders." Though his show does quite well in the New York overnight ratings, it came in tied for 58th in the national tabulations. Although viewers often spend the first few weeks of a new video season sampling the Freeman series, "All in the Family" has simply murdered two of these. NBC-TV's "The Partners" and ABC-TV's "Get Together" in head-on competition in the latest national ratings.

"The Partners," a half-hour comedy about two bumbling policemen—one white, the other black—came in 54th. And there is a reported strain in relations between the two stars, Don "Shirley's World" (with Shirley Adams and Rupert Crosse. It is MacLaine), bombed out in a said that Crosse, among other major way—the second time in things, feels more Negroes should be employed on the set.

There seems little hope that show either will attract much audience, unless by some chance a rescheduling of the shows pop music star Bobby Sherman

City Beat

By HUGH REYNOLDS
Freeman City Hall Reporter

Tuesday night's Common Council meeting, as expected, proved to be a lengthy affair with most of the aldermen taking the last opportunity before Election Day for a little free advertising.

They may get another chance not because of what happened at the Council meeting, but what didn't. It involves the Central Broadway Businessmen's Association who by now must be getting used to things not happening in their area, at least as far as the city is concerned.

Remember those blazing headlines in mid-September declaring that the mayor would propose a double-barrelled program for the Central Broadway businessmen? The promise was to ask the Council for authority to buy three parking lots in the Central Broadway area and to apply to the state for planning funds for that section. Everyone seemed happy about it. Not a single discouraging word was heard.

Mayor Koenig says he held up his end, delivering his legislation to Mrs. Florence Ludlow on Sept. 29 for her committee's consideration. Mrs. Ludlow heads a special Council committee on the Central Broadway problem which includes Aldermen Ed Norton, Mike Perry, Bernie Sims and John Machione.

MRS. LUDLOW says she was unable to meet with her committee but notified all of them of the mayor's proposals. Three of them were willing to sign the legislation bringing it to the floor on Tuesday night, Mrs. Ludlow says. They included Mrs. Ludlow, Sims and Machione.

But then, according to Mrs. Ludlow, opposition developed from Perry and Sinsbaugh who questioned the cost of the study and who was going to pay for it.

Fearing a floor fight, Mrs. Ludlow decided to exercise her prerogative as committee chairman and withdraw the legislation.

Which leaves the businessmen right back where they started. The businessmen have that "a funny thing happened to us on the way to the Council" feeling.

More meetings are planned. The merchants have promised to get very nasty if the city continues to renege on its promises. The businessmen, incidentally, figure their stock with the city will be worthless the day after election day. They'll press hard for a special meeting of the Council.

MEANWHILE, BACK AT the Council meeting, it was business as usual. John Heitzman, known as "The Bomb" for his sometimes sudden moves, had the element of surprise work against him.

Heitzman, who may be danger of typecasting himself, usually springs his surprise legislative moves in the form of a tabling motion.

This time it was a motion to table a proposal to set up a public hearing for the Andretta housing complex in the Uptown Renewal project. Heitzman got a second from Emilio Primo, who he contacted just before the Council came back from recess. Ed Norton raised Heitzman's motion to its highwater mark. It went down, 10-3.

There was some strange voting on that issue, no doubt caused in part by Heitzman's surprise move. Norton, the 11th Ward Democrat voted for the table of the proposal but then when it came up again after the tabling motion failed, voted in favor of it. Ed Roux did just the opposite, voting against the tabling and against the legislation, later.

Heitzman might have had more success with some advance contact with his colleagues or as one alderman put it, "I'm not going to vote on something that important with five minutes notice."

TRUCK ROUTES—Discussion of the city's truck routes caused some heat from one of the calmer corners of the Council, Bernie Sims' 13th Ward. Sims is decidedly even-tempered and rarely gets riled even though all around him may be losing their cool.

The issue was truck routes. No one, it seems, wants trucks running through their wards. Everyone, it seems, knows the trucks have to get through the city somehow which means they have to go through somebody's ward.

It had been proposed that all truck traffic be routed down Route 32 in the city, or Henry Street. Henry Street happens to be one of Sims' streets and its residents don't like the truck traffic they're getting now.

Sims put it this way, "If truck traffic is routed (exclusively) down Henry Street, I can guarantee you that every resident of Henry Street will be at city hall to protest it. And I will be right in front."

It's a hot political issue, alright. Pete Mancuso, chairman of the Traffic Committee, being a sensible man, has scheduled a meeting of the entire Council AFTER Election Day to discuss it.

UNEMPLOYMENT—There seems to be a certain lack of communication, or at least a lack of understanding between the mayor's office and the county on the Emergency Employment Act which provides jobs for people out of work through special federal legislation.

First, the city didn't understand that the program had to be approved by the legislation branch and not just the mayor. The county overlooked that and Mayor Koenig presented his proposal to the aldermen on Tuesday night.

The legislation was prefaced by the statement that the program was under the environmental section of the county program funded at $461,000.

So, what does the city recommend: two clerks in the treasurer's office at $5,000 each. Maybe they're supposed to keep Kingston green by taking in more money. Or at least keep us out of the red.

The mayor says only that he was asked for his proposals and that he gave them. The word from the county office building is that the mayor is going to have to figure another way to staff his treasurer's office.

THE PARKING GARAGE—That issue has quietly slid behind the scenes as the election draws near but back in those smoke-filled rooms, the fight is on.

The big question is not so much the parking garage but a parking authority. Mayor Koenig wants approval of the garage before he recommends legislation for a parking authority which would have control over all parking in the city. The Council wants Koenig to name the parking authority which would have control over all parking in the city. The Council wants Koenig to name the parking authority first, and, most importantly, a person to head it. The aldermen seem to have the edge in this dispute.

POLITICS—Republican headquarters opened Friday night and GOP leader Ted Feeney says the GOP mayoral campaign will kick off on Monday with some "heavy stuff."

Rumors are rampant that the Republicans have thrown their candidate, Bob Murphy, to the wolves, much like in 1969 when Jim Tyrrell was left high and dry. Feeney denies it, claiming the reason Murphy hasn't opened up heretofore is because Murphy and his staff, have been carefully researching their attack against Koenig. It all begins on Monday, we are told, 29 days before election.

Probe Two Suspected Dog Poisoning Cases

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON
Officials of the Ulster County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has issued a warning to owners of dogs and cats in the area to keep their pets from straying away from home or running around the neighborhood to protect them against possible poisoning.

A spokesman for the society also called upon the public to be on the lookout for a strange truck that is suspected of being used to pick up dogs and cats and dispose of the animals for experimental purposes.

"This summer has been a had one for dog poisoning and thefts of animals that normally never stray away from the homes of their owners," a society spokesman said.

Commenting on suspicions that a "dog dealer" may be operating in the county on a pattern and picking up dogs, an SPCA spokesman said that judging from complaints of missing dogs and cats, it appears that whoever is picking up dogs is working in sections of the county between Ellenville and Phoenixia south to New Paltz and back again.

Two suspected dog poisoning cases in the Elmendorf Street section of the City of Kingston have been recorded at the SPCA office at the shelter on Brandt Road in the Town of Ulster.

Special

On Wednesday a Shetland-type black and white collie was taken to the society's shelter dead, and it was reported that there was a "heavy odor" of strychnine coming from the animal, whose general appearance indicated it had been poisoned.

An official of the society recalled that in June another suspected poisoning case was brought to the attention of the SPCA. On that occasion, it was said, a young St. Bernard dog was picked up in the Elmendorf Street area. The dog died and in that case strong odors of strychnine were in evidence.

It was also reported that a woman resident of Eddyville recently complained that her pet dog became ill and when she took it to a veterinarian she learned the animal had been poisoned. "The woman said several residents of the Eddyville area had complained about their dogs being poisoned," an SPCA spokesman said. "We asked this woman to get the names of the other owners and turn them over to the sheriff's office or State Police to investigate."

In reference to the suspected "dog dealer" operating through the county picked up dogs—possibly for experimental purposes—an SPCA officer called upon the public to report to the nearest police unit any incidents involving strange or suspicious trucks they may see in their neighborhood that may be operated by a person or person who might be looking for dogs or cats.

TROOPS ON MOVE—Troops from Buenos Aires Garrison move out of the capital en route to the town of Aul, 300 kilometers to the south, where army units revolted against the government of President Alejandro Lanusse. Lanusse issued orders for loyal troops to go to Azul and crush the rebellion. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

10,000 Troops Quell Revolt in Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—Nearly 10,000 troops backed by tanks and heavy artillery marched on two towns in the interior of Argentina today to crush an army revolt against President Alejandro A. Lanusse.

Lanusse, an army lieutenant general who also is commander in chief of the armed forces, said he would use whatever measures were necessary to crush "the anti-popular and totalitarian revolt."

Two armored regiments in the towns of Azul and Olavarria, 180 miles and 220 miles southwest of the capital, said after taking over a radio station Friday they had "lost faith" in Lanusse and asked that he resign. Officials estimated between 2,000 and 3,000 men were involved in the revolt. They were armed with tanks and heavy artillery.

A high command spokesman said today that 9,260 loyalist troops, backed by 46 French-made AMX13 tanks and 75

105mm and 150mm guns, were moving on Azul and Olavarria. He said they expected to surround Azul by dawn.

The units in revolt were identified as the "General Paz Lancers" and the "10th Pueyrredon Hussars," both highly trained armored units. Late Friday the "General Paz Lancers" were reported to have moved 60 tanks and armored cars and 70 heavy self-propelled guns from Olavarria to Azul, where they took up defensive positions around the Hussars' garrison.

Col. Manuel Alejandro Garcia, 46, commander of the Hussars and leader of the revolt, said the rebellion was "nationalistic, social and Christian." He did not elaborate but the group appeared to be right-wing.

The uprising became known when the rebel unit in Azul captured a radio station and announced the regiment "had lost faith" in Lanusse and asked that he resign.

Later communiques broadcast over the station called Lanusse's six and one-half month-old government a "sinister conspiracy," a "corrupt regime," and said it was "alleged to foreign interests."

Lanusse, 53, answered the rebels on a nationwide televised and broadcast speech in which he said the revolt was carried out "by a minute group of army officers imbued with a crude reactionary ideology."

Lanusse said he would not "hesitate" and in this I have the full support of the army, navy and air force—in using the necessary measures—with maximum energy and severity—to terminate this type of irresponsible adventures."

Lanusse, in his speech, said the revolt was aimed at disrupting his plans to return this country to civilian rule.

Ice Cream, Hamburgers for Freed POW

SAIGON (UPI)—A U.S. Army staff sergeant who returned Friday from more than two years' captivity in the hands of the Viet Cong ordered hamburgers and ice cream when he reached safety, military spokesmen said today.

The soldier, S. Sgt. John C. Sexton Jr., 23, Warren, Mich., walked out of the jungle Friday and into American hands in the town of Loc Ninh 70 miles north of Saigon and about 10 miles from the Cambodian frontier.

He said he had been led by Viet Cong guides through the jungles barefoot for 10 days before being turned loose to find his own way clutching two slips of paper pleading for someone to help him reach allied lines.

U.S. medical officers in Vietnam said Sexton was in good spirits today, although he had trouble sleeping Friday night in a U.S. Army hospital.

When he got up, he telephoned his father in Warren, Mich. The elder Sexton told reporters, "he wanted a Christmas dinner with the works—sweet potatoes, baked beans, turkey and ham. I said he'd get that."

Sexton's father said his son sounded "good, real good" over the phone.

Military sources said today "the Army is hoping to get him on a plane home within the next two days."

In New York, a "Committee for Liaison" sponsored by the U.S. Peace Movement said that it had been informed that Sexton's release was a goodwill gesture on the occasion of the Viet Cong autumn offensive.

Sexton was taken Friday by helicopter to Long Binh Army Hospital, 18 miles northeast of Saigon, and placed under the care of Army Doctor Capt. Robert W. Reed of Nampa, Ida.

The U.S. command said he had lost 50 pounds in captivity and was down to 135. In addition, he was suffering from mild malaria and moderate anemia and had partial loss of vision in his right eye, an immobilized right elbow and multiple fragmentation wounds that had healed, doctors said.

The spokesman said the wounds and elbow injury apparently resulted when he was hit by shrapnel just before his capture Aug. 12, 1969.

Victory for Col. Herbert

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Lt. Col. Anthony B. Herbert continues to insist he was relieved from his command as a paratrooper battalion commander in Vietnam because he accused two superiors of covering up atrocities against civilians.

Herbert, 47, the Army's most decorated enlisted man in the Korean War, won a victory Friday when Army Secretary Robert F. Froehke blocked his forced retirement from the Army. Froehke said efficiency reports, made out by Herbert's superiors, which twice kept the officer from being promoted, "continued unwarped expressions of opinion."

The Army Secretary's ruling again made Herbert eligible for promotion. But Froehke said there was nothing in Herbert's service file which showed his relief from command of a 173rd Airborne Brigade Battalion in 1969 was in any way connected with reporting or nonreporting of war crimes, atrocities or similar misconduct.

Herbert was called to the Pentagon Friday from his job of supervising laundry service and the post mortuary at Ft. McPherson, Ga., to be informed of Froehke's decision. He was questioned by reporters as he left the military headquarters.

"I was relieved because of the charges I made," Herbert said.

He said he was "happy about" the Army Secretary's decision but shrugged off other questions.

"I've got a family to talk to," he said.

Froehke reviewed the case at the urging of Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee.

"The unsatisfactory efficiency report reflected that Lt. Col. Herbert was relieved—despite his tactical and technical skills and his personal bravery—because both his immediate supervisor and his brigade commander stated that they had lost confidence in his judgment and could no longer tolerate what they considered his inability to work in harmony with colleagues," an Army spokesman said in reporting Froehke's decision.

Herbert, a native of Hermine, Pa., made his reports on the murder and torture of Vietnamese civilians to Brig. Gen. John Barnes, the brigade commander, and Col. J. Ross Franklin.

He later filed charges against both men for covering up atrocities. The Army still is investigating the charges against Barnes. The charges against Franklin were dismissed.

West Coast Dock Machinery Being Readied for Longshoremen

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—West Coast port authorities scurried today to ready docks for longshoremen ordered back to work after a 100-day strike that led to losses estimated at $1.7 billion.

Cleanup and maintenance crews moved on to wharves Friday to reactivate machinery, idle since July 1 when 15,000 members of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Association struck 120 West Coast shipping and stevedoring employers in the Pacific Maritime Association.

Picket lines came down Friday after ILWU President Harry Bridges ordered his men to report for work at 8 a.m. PDT today. He was complying with a federal court order for a 10-day return-to-work period. A hearing will be held here Oct. 15 on whether to continue it into an 80-day cooling off period sought by President Nixon under the Taft-Hartley Act after ports on both coasts were struck.

No action has been taken to reopen East and Gulf ports, where longshore strikes began a week ago, resulting in losses of $17 million daily.

As West Coast waterfronts stirred to life between the Canadian and Mexican borders for the first time since June 30, a total of 249 ships waited in 24 ports to unload and take on new cargo.

PMA said it has established a policy of "first in, first out," for handling the waiting cargo ships.

Military cargo, mail and passenger ships will continue to receive priority handling.

In his instructions to his 28 locals, Bridges made it clear that the return to work was under the expired contract which ended June 30th.

That contract gave the ILWU exclusive jurisdiction over handling of container shipments. PMA's refusal to renew its guarantee of this work, which the Teamsters Union also seeks, is a key strike issue.

The ILWU had sought a two-year contract with a $1.60 per hour raise over the current $4.28 base rate, a guaranteed 40-hour work pay week and pension improvements.

A presidential fact-finding panel reported that agreement had been reached on a guaran-

A Major Artist in a Show to See

ADMIRATION OF HIS PEERS is evident in this candid study of critically applauded Woodstock artists Doris Lee and Dan Gottschalk as they meditate on a massive Bromberg sculpture. The show by Bromberg, a Paltz faculty member, is now on view at the Art Gallery of the State University College.

OVER THE DECADES, Manuel Bromberg has exhibited at major galleries and museums over the country and the world. Now his expansive sculptures, portraits and hard-edge abstracts, and smaller drawings are being exhibited on the New Paltz campus through Oct. 17. Paltz student Gae Dixon comes close to being dwarfed by this Bromberg sculpture which is included in his current retrospective show.

GAE DIXON, the student in the adjoining photo, has switched from viewing to talking. Here, she engages artist Bromberg in a discussion of contemporary sculpture. As a muralist, painter of graphic World War II records, and caster of Catskill mountain cliff sections in polyester replicas, he's an expert in his field and a man with whom students have long enjoyed trading ideas.

NEVER TOO YOUNG to enjoy and appreciate art and the genius and talent that makes art possible is the message of this photo. Tiny tot gets a piggy-back ride and a shoulder high view of the goings-on at the opening of Manuel Bromberg's retrospective showing covering more than three decades of dedicated work.

THE PUNCH BOWL is a traditional accoutrement at any gallery opening and with two pretty girls to do the serving, it's a pleasure to take a refreshment break. The opening party, however, is over, but there's still more than a week left to browse at your leisure through the Bromberg show, and it's one of "The" shows to see this season. (All photos by Freeman photographer Bob Haines)

LIGHTED SCULPTURE by Woodstocker Paul Domville is one of the more intriguing items now on display in the 12th Annual Crafts Exhibit at Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen. Forms in center are all in bright colors; contrast beautifully with the white background. It's a perfect decoration for any corner; also sheds enough light through holes in base to double as a lamp.

RACCOON AND OWL in wood is also the work of Paul Domville. Cute and cunning, it would be a conversation piece in any home. It also took an honorable mention award in the Guild of Craftsmen show, now on view to the public through Nov. 2. The best work of the best craftsmen all over the area is represented in the current exhibit, one of the major fall attractions locally.

A Cornucopia of Crafts

WOODSTOCK that yesterday's horseshoes have been replaced by work of imagination and distinction. A magnet that should attract hundreds of visitors to Woodstock from now through Nov. 2 is the 12th Annual Crafts Exhibition now being presented at the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen. In its Kleinert Gallery, the Guild has mounted an intriguing show of contemporary crafts, featuring the work of some 58 area craftsmen in ceramics, wood, metal, weaving, plastics and other materials.

It is a show of visual delight and vibrant color, attesting to the brilliance and sensitivity of craftsmen here in the Catskills. And it adds luster anew to the unique reputation the Guild enjoys.

There is beauty in abundance in the myriad articles on display. Honorable mention award winning work by Robert McClain in iron serves to remind us of the days when the blacksmith set up his forge to follow and old, time-honored skill. But it reminds us, too, aimed at delighting visitors.

Tempo suggests you plan to stop by the Guild of Craftsmen show for some leisurely browsing before it closes Nov. 2. And while you're there, don't miss the "Best in Show" clock by John Pike, the ceramic vases by Philip Bresler, enameled ash trays by Ellen Hall, jeweled pendant by Kenneth Traub, covered silver compote by William Seitz, and Moorish mirrors by Betty Nahon — first prize winners one and all.

Among Tempo's particular favorites, as well: a cunning raccoon and owl in wood by Paul Domville, stuffed goodies by the Society of Brothers in Rifton, dolls by Marion Bates, a shoe lamp by Leonard Lewis, William Howell's nature study, Sylva Hutchins' plaque, and Paul Domville's "Corner Study."

Notable, too, is pottery by such unmatched talents as Louise Brockenshaw, Vera Gold, Hilda Hortens and Phil Bresler. Blanche Hood's has contributed some stunning enamels, and if you are prone to carving, search out the work of Hal Boyer and Nick Mocharnuik. (By TOBIE GEERTSEMA)

Other craftsmen in clay or cloth, wood or wax, plastic or paper present a kaleidoscope of designs and techniques, from historic to contemporary, conventional to experimental, conservative to far-out — all aimed at delighting visitors.

Notable, too, is pottery by such unmatched talents as Louise Brockenshaw, Vera Gold, Hilda Hortens and Phil Bresler. Blanche Hood's has contributed some stunning enamels, and if you are prone to carving, search out the work of Hal Boyer and Nick Mocharnuik. (By TOBIE GEERTSEMA)

SHOE LAMP by Leonard Lewis is a show stopper in the art colony exhibit. Another attraction is the wall plaque above, titled "Nature Under Glass" by its creator, William Howell. Against a natural wood background, he has placed dried flowers, leaves, dandelion pods and other bits of nature's bounty.

VIRTUALLY EVERY CRAFT known to man is represented in the Guild show, now on view seven days a week, 1-5:30 p.m. through Nov. 2, in the heart of Woodstock off the Village Green. Among them: woven materials by Judy Chase, pottery, enamel and ceramic ash-trays, metal candlesticks and woodwork. (All photos by Freeman photographer Bob Haines)

Sixth Annual Fall Festival At Monroe's Museum Village Of Smith's Clove Opens Today

MONROE The sixth annual Fall Festival of 19th Century autumn activities is scheduled to take place at Museum Village of Smith's Cove for this and next weekend through October 24. Seven additional crafts and household tasks of the last century will be demonstrated, in addition to a regular program of craft demonstrations: weaving, candle molding, blacksmithing, tin-smithing, pewter-casting, pottery and broom-making.

The Mid-Hudson Valley in full foliage will frame the Museum Village green. Sights, sounds and smells of lost American handicrafts will stir into life the small, rural 1800's community of Smith's Cove. The spicy makings of apple butter; sharp golden sap running from the cider press; and the sweet smell of ginger-bread and assorted breads prepared in a brick oven, will mix with pungent wood smoke under the dye, candle-dipping and soap-making pots. It is the autumn of the year and Orange County farm folks of the early Nineteenth Century are busy at seasonal tasks, storing up supplies for the coming winter.

The air will be heavy with activity; quilting frames set-up outside the Weave Shop; talks to be given on common American herbs; and lessons to be taught in the Village one-room schoolhouse. October and November in times past were also months for gayety and get-together. A bake sale of local women's wares will be held in the Village Information Center, marking the beginning of Museum Village's smell of ginger-bread and celebration of fall.

The exhibits and shops in the 41 buildings of the Museum will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. The scheduled folk-craft demonstrations will also take place during the same hours. The Museum closes for the season on October 31. Museum Village of Smith's Clove is located on Route 17M, four miles west of the Harriman Exit (exit 16) on the New York Thruway.

Olana Closing

HUDSON The season at Olana Historic Site near Hudson has ended. The grounds will remain open during the daylight hours this fall so that visitors may enjoy the autumn color and the view of the Hudson Valley.

Due to the State Budget cutback this year, Olana was open for only half of its normal season. Also, this year for the first time the castle was closed to the public on Mondays and Tuesdays. The day-by-day attendance compared favorably with last year, but the total attendance for the year is down due to the shortened season and being closed two days a week. The total attendance through Aug. 31 for 1971 is 16,662, compared to 25,631 for 1970.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Stephanie Powers will star in an episode titled "The Paper Man" for the "New CBS Friday Night Movie" anthology series.

WAA Will Award First One-Man Show To Living Artist

The first in a series of exciting fall-winter shows sponsored by Woodstock Artists Association, Inc., opened Friday, Oct. 1 and will continue through October 17 at Woodstock Art Gallery on the Village Green. It is the first of several all media juried shows from which the jurors will select an outstanding artist to award a one-man show November 12-28 at Woodstock Art Gallery.

This award is a singular honor since up to the present time the policy of the Association has not been to give one-man shows to living artists. The executive board has initiated this radical change in recognition of the fact that many artists today are inadequately represented by any single work. The Association, therefore, is offering them an opportunity to present a more total concept of their work, and the community will be afforded the opportunity of viewing and evaluating the work of other artists living in Woodstock whose one-man shows have always been elsewhere. It is also anticipated that the incentive provided by such a policy will encourage each to submit his best work, thus raising the quality of the group shows.

The Gallery will be open Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays from 1 to 4 p.m. The first show will be juried by Franklin Alexander, William Deussen and Helen Gilkey.

The second show of the season will be devoted to drawings and graphics, and will run from October 22 through November 7. Three works may be submitted on Sunday, Oct. 17, 3 to 5 p.m.

The first series of shows will end with the traditional Christmas show, beginning December 3 and ending December 24, with the gallery open the week of Dec. 20-24. Each member is invited to submit two works Sunday, Nov.

Dreamed of Violin, Settled for Baton

KINGSTON

For those TEMPO readers lucky enough to have tickets to the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra on stage at Kingston's Community Theatre next Wednesday, Oct. 13 at 8:30 p.m., a highlight of the evening will come when Sergiu Commissiona makes his entrance to conduct. It seems appropriate to TEMPO, then, that a few words should be said about this 42-year-old maestro who is one of today's busiest jet-hoppers on the guest circuit.

He and his superlative orchestra come to Kingston under the banner of the local Community Concert Association, the hard-working group that will also be presenting the Canadian Opera Company and duo-harpists Longstreth and Esconsa later in the season in its series of three concerts.

Sergiu Commissiona was chief conductor of the Bucharest State Opera and his wife Robinne a dancer in the corps de ballet, when they made the decision to leave their native Romania and go to Israel. That put them in disfavor with the Rumanian government (the hand that feeds all artists) and, in the long months of waiting for visas, they were not allowed to work. Faced with severe deprivation, Commissiona sold his piano, violin and dress suit. When they eventually left for a new life in Israel, their luggage consisted of little more than batons, ballet slippers and orchestral scores.

Forever the Traveler

The years that followed saw them hopscotching from Haifa to London to Gothenburg and followed them until he was lost. him becoming conductor of the Found by his parents, he Baltimore Symphony. From begged for a violin; was given Baltimore, he now planes off one and began lessons. By the for guest appearances in Israel, time he was a teenager, he England, Europe and across the began studying conducting. U.S. for more than 100 engagements each season.

He finds his guest-appearances from country to country arduous but stimulating; looks forward to his blonde and graceful wife's cooking on his return home. And she's always sure to have his favorite foods waiting — avocado-with-caviar and the Rumanian dish ghivechiu—a tasty combination of fresh eggplant, tomatoes, green beans and limas.

His Kingston audience next week will be interested in knowing that he believes guest-conducting to be a broadening experience for an audience, as well as the conductor. "It sharpens the listener's awareness of individual interpretations," he says, "since—even with a permanent conductor, no two performances are identical."

He also knows full well that the orchestra can do all sorts of things to "test" a conductor, sounding, more than a dozen times over, different each time. He accepts that challenge by expressing and transmitting his own personality and interpretation, as his Kingston audience will be able to observe.

His Whole Life

"Music," says Commissiona, "is the whole of his life, not just his profession—and has been since he was four years old and heard a band of music-making gypsies in Bucharest;

Forced to earn a living at 19 when his father died after his factory and assets were confiscated by the government, he became a violinist with the Rumanian State ensemble—orchestra, ballet and chorus—and met his wife there. He came out of the pits rapidly; was made conductor when a last minute substitution showed the podium was his proper habitat. Later, he became guest conductor with the Bucharest Philharmonic orchestra; toured abroad frequently.

From there to Israel, Robinne danced with the Tel Aviv Opera ballet and segiu conducted the Haifa Symphony Orchestra. He moved up the ladder to the Israel Chamber Orchestra, an engagement with the London Philharmonic, and—eventually—to Baltimore. Unquestionably, Commissiona and the Baltimore Symphony will be impressive and auspicious here next Wednesday.

Unique Chess Sets, Painting in 'Egg' At Rexmere Gallery

STAMFORD and Phoenixia, and has shared sets representing the fashions of the 14th and 15th centuries, the Court of Louis XVI and Marie Antoinette, and of Napoleon and Josephine are on view during October at the Rexmere Gallery, Rural Supplementary Educational Center, Rexmere Park, Stamford.

Also on view this month is a collection of 21 paintings in egg tempera, ranging in style from almost photographic to surrealist. All are the work of Margaret Mullin, Lanesville artist.

A graduate of Cooper Union, Mrs. Mullin has taught in the art department of the Traphagen School of Fashion in New York City—an influence evident in her chess sets, which are modeled of epoxy resin.

Exhibition Credits

She has had one-man shows to in Kansas City, New York City

Her work has also been shown at the Riverside Museum, Whitney Museum, New School for Social Research, Galerie Neuf, and the Museum of Non-Objective Painting in New York City, Black Mountain College in North Carolina, Vanguard Gallery in St. Louis and Biow Associates in Washington, D.C.

Artist Mullin has also been the recipient of the Suydam medal of the National Academy of Art; has won awards at the Missouri State Fair and the Missouri Sweepstakes Exhibition.

All paintings and the chess sets are for sale by the artist.

The public is invited to attend this showing, at no cost, during Center hours, from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday, except holidays.

Historic Sites Given Reprieve

HYDE PARK The National Park Service of the Department of the Interior announced this week that sufficient Federal funds have been made available to keep the Franklin D. Roosevelt Home and the Vanderbilt Mansion open seven days a week through the month of October. That means the previous announcement of their closing has been rescinded.

Both the Home of Franklin D. Roosevelt and the Vanderbilt Mansion National Historic Sites are located on U.S. 9 in Hyde Park. The two Historic Sites are units of the National Park System, and will be open every day through October from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Further information may be obtained by calling (914) 229-9115.

NEW YORK (UPI)—For the first time in the 30-year history of Jules Podell's Copacabana, and what could be a first in most parts of the country, an eight-string instrument, a mola, is being played by a musician at that night club.

It is a combination zither-guitar-banjo which originated in China. "You play it by pulling strings," says musician Tony Thomas.

Grist Mill Project Is Top Attraction For Mum Festival

FLOWERS IN GAY PROFUSION are always the main feature of the ever-popular and annual Saugerties Mum Festival. Traditionally planned for the early fall when thousands of flowers vie with the autumn foliage display for attention, this year's Mum Festival in Seamon Park is slated for two consecutive Sundays, Oct. 10 and 17.

THIS YEAR at the Mum Festival, fall flowers will share the center of attention with an outdoor display of artifacts culled from the site of the old grist mill and other items from the Homespun Age. Here's the Sawyer Kill mill site as it looked before the current restoration project got underway. (Freeman photos by Bob Haines)

SAUGERTIES
The National Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington somehow always manages to get along without geisha. But it couldn't get along without the cherry blossoms.

By the same vein, the Saugerties Mum Festival wouldn't be the same without the chrysanthemums—and the crowds that converge yearly to savor the beauty and serenity of Seamon Park. Always filled with flowers and nature lovers for the Festival, the Malden Avenue park is a scenic landmark.

But this year, to the flower-viewing, will be added another attraction—a salute to the Little Sawyer Association grist mill restoration project. To fully understand the project's importance to local heritage, one would have to summon up a vision of 1745 when Abraham Post, a native Kingstonian, came to Saugerties and bought a tract of land at the north of the village bordering the Sawyer Kill, a site just north of today's Seamon Park.

A Change of Names

Eventually he built a grist mill and a road map published in 1792 shows the mill in all its industrial grandeur where only the stone foundations exist today. Known for years as Post's mill, it changed hands in mid-19th century, a fact verified by a pen sketch of the mill dated 1855 and identifying it as Dwlager's mill. Possibly this name was anglicised by later generations for the last miller, who died around 1912, was Martin Terwilliger. With his death, the mill ceased normal operation.

Over the intervening years, the mill decayed and its roof and walls collapsed. Aided by fire and occasional vandals, it was almost erased despite a number of attempts to rebuild or restore it.

Restoration work—at long last—began last spring when a group of interested Saugertiesians formed the Little Sawyer Association under the presidency of James Dargan with the announced purpose of actually restoring—hopefully to full working order—the old, pre-Revolutionary mill.

Male members of the Association took the first steps toward restoration last July; spent long hours cleaning out the mill's stone foundation (still sound in spite of the almost two centuries it has weathered); salvaging working parts of the mill which had lain buried for years. Pieces of all but two or three of the mill's working parts have been uncovered; will enable the Association to make an unusually accurate restoration of the grist mill as it existed when last in full operation. This winter, building committee chairman Joseph Wipper will direct work on construction of the wooden water wheel and the wooden shaft.

All That's Left

All of which means that if you go to the Saugerties Mum Festival on Sunday, Oct. 10 and Sunday, Oct. 17, you'll see what's left of the grist and grind of the past.

The largest pieces of salvaged mill parts—four mill stones, the great iron gear wheel with its wooden teeth, the wooden shaft that connected the wooden water wheel to the mill's interior mechanism—will be on display in an outside area of Seamon Park, adjoining the mill site. Smaller pieces have been stored in the Park barn.

The outdoor displays for the Festival viewing have been labeled, and an exhibit of smaller artifacts—including not only mill parts, but also such items as branding irons with which flour kegs were marked, will be on view in the Park barn.

Little Sawyer Association members will be on hand during the two Mum Days in the barn from 12 noon to 4 p.m. to answer questions and take names and addresses of those who'd like to take part in this preservation of local history or become members of the Association.

Plan now, then, to attend the upcoming Chrysanthemum Festival (the dates once again are Oct. 10 and 17) and enjoy both the scenic beauty and history on display.

Poetry Display Street Stopper

KINGSTON The work of a poet may often be read, but is rarely displayed. Not so with Bloomington poet George Montgomery, who's been published in numerous anthologies and who's guested on TV and radio shows to read his works.

Montgomery's poetry is on view weekly here in Kingston in an arrangement that sees his words exhibited much as a painting might be. It's featured in a show window next to the leather shop at 286 Fair Street. A new poem appears weekly on a rotation basis in the window — and passersby have been attracted by the notice above his verses, which reads POEM OF THE WEEK.

Businessmen, secretaries, shopkeepers, lawyers and shoppers have all been observed taking time out of a busy day to pause and read the poems as they are changed. And while we're reading his poems streetside, Montgomery will again be reading his poetry at schools throughout the eastern states this fall, as he has done in the past at such institutions as the University of Pennsylvania, Hunter College and Rutgers, among others.

David Lax Painting on Tour

POUGHKEEPSIE Included in a traveling exhibition of paintings by contemporary Americans will be a colorful canvas entitled "The Gate." The work is by artist David Lax, a professor at Dutchess Community College. According to an announcement from the Laguna Gloria Museum and the Texas Fine Arts Association, the Lax painting will be shown at major art institutions in Mexico.

Assisted by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts and the Foreign Service of the U.S. Government, the group of paintings and other art selected for the tour will visit approximately 85 communities. They will also be displayed in the Instituto Nacional de Bellas Artes Palacio de Bellas Artes Mexico D. F.

"The Gate" was painted by Lax in 1964. It satirizes the complacency and self-indulgence in modern American life. The canvas will be on loan from the Bliss Collection in New York during the period it is on tour.

Location Note

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "What's Up, Doc," which co-stars Barbra Streisand and Ryan O'Neal, shot three weeks on location in San Francisco with the balance of the film photographed at Warner Bros. studio.

MOVIES

The Red Tent

"The Red Tent," now playing at Kingston's Community Theatre and starring Sean Connery, Claudia Cardinale, Peter Finch and Hardy Kruger, was filmed on locations in the Soviet Union and on the sound stages of Moscow.

It's the story of General Nobile's ill-fated 1928 arctic expedition in the dirigible Italia

Tie That String Around a Finger

KINGSTON

Here's a last reminder to all those who are presently associate members of Coach House Players. Next Friday, Oct. 15, is the deadline for ADVANCE season ticket reservations for the three shows coming up this season.

Any season tickets not paid for by that date cannot be held. After Oct. 15, NEW reservations will be processed until Nov. 8. As of right now, however, there's still time to send in your check for the reservations now being held for you by the committee.

Address all communications to: The Coach House Players, c/o Victor E. Fletcher, 24 Village Drive, Saugerties, N.Y. 12477.

Musical Theme

The musical theme for the revived "You Are There" series on CBS is the creation of composer Glenn Paxton, who has many television credits and provided the music for Broadway's "First Impressions" some years ago.

Star and Director

Besides playing the title role in "Columbo," the new CBS detective series seen Wednesday nights, Peter Falk is making his debut as director of one of the episodes, "Blueprint for Murder."

PETER FINCH (center) portrays General Umberto Nobile, the leader of an ill-fated 1928 Arctic expedition in the dirigible Italia in Paramount Pictures' "THE RED TENT." The true-life drama, now playing in Technicolor at Kingston's Community Theatre, also stars Sean Connery, Claudia Cardinale and Hardy Kruger.

The title, in case you're interested, comes from the fact that Nobile and his men were stranded on the ice pack under the red tent.

Friends

If you're a romantic, you might well like "Friends," now playing at Kingston's Mayfair Theatre — for it is indeed a romance. And if you're a foreign film buff, you'll appreciate it all the more — since it is a French movie. The younger contingent will also want to know that this film comes with music by Elton John, currently one of popdom's most adored musicians.

Only John's songs, however, are featured in this love story from abroad about a young boy and girl and their first romantic encounters. One of the movie's best selling points is that it's set against lush panoramic backgrounds.

Other Choices

THE SUMMER OF '42, and HARPER. Current double feature at the local Sunset Drive-In offers a rerun of two oldies but goodies. "Summer of '42" is really not so old, but it's been around the circuit this season often. It's a beautiful, nostalgic, reminiscent picture of three teenage boys faced with accepting manhood at the beginning of World War II. "Harper" is a taut, tough private eye film with Paul Newman as the investigator so down on his luck he makes his coffee from yesterday's grounds resurrected from the waste paper basket.

Tonight only at the late show at the Sunset, you can see "ZACHARIAH," a far-out, rock western with Country Joe and the Fish, rock band long at the top of the charts.

THE ANDERSON TAPES. At Rosendale Theatre, Poughkeepsie's Overlook Drive-In and Red Hook's Lyceum, this fast paced tale of a robbery, cleverly planned and executed to empty out a mammoth luxury apartment building in Manhattan. Sean Connery is the leader of the ex-cons who do the dirty work, and comic Alan King plays it straight as the Mafioso who supplies the money for the gig.

FANTASIA. Held over at Hyde Park's Roosevelt is this Walt Disney classic, a new and marvelous happening to each succeeding generation of youngsters. Mickey Mouse is the Sorcerer's Apprentice, and the color and music are unbelievably gorgeous.

There's kiddie fare, too, this afternoon and Sunday afternoon only at Kingston's Community where special children's matinees will present the Robert Lewis Stevenson classic about pirates, "TREASURE ISLAND."

McCABE & MRS. MILLER. At Woodstock's Tinker Street Cinema, this tale of an early western boom town, with Warren Beatty as a gambling card shark and Julie Christie as a tough madam. Good entertainment and a great chase scene at the end.

Although McCluskey has been painting for many years, he is still in the process of develop-tional Academy members, and Thomas Barrett, James Scott, and Ludvik Durchanek.

ERNESTLY SPEAKING

COUNTDOWN!

48 . . . 49 . . . 50 . . . 51 . . . and next week's "colyum" will make it 52 . . . a full year of getting this historical weekly effort out on time! I'd feel a little more cocky about this achievement if it weren't for the knowledge that in another 10 days The Daily Freeman will celebrate its 100th year of publishing. Makes one kind of humble, doesn't it?

But it also gives me a chance to "put down" a lot of "guessers" who didn't give Roberto's much chance of existence as a top-quality restaurant when it opened, just about 2 years ago. Reasons ranged from: "What? A Continental Restaurant in Port Ewen?" to "Who needs another restaurant in this neck of the woods, anyway?"

It hasn't been easy, but thanks to the favor of enough Ulster Countians (and a welcome contingent of patrons from the other side of the river) we've been able to make the mortgage payments, pay the help, pay the bills, and to keep building up the patronage that answered all the pre-opening doubts about whether folks hereabouts needed another restaurant, especially a Continental Restaurant. My weekly recital of those is only a small accounting of old and new friends each week. (I wish more of you would heed my plea to fill out TEMPO sheets, so I could gratefully acknowledge your presence.) Incidentally, if any of you recognize in the following listings, an item or two that should have been printed earlier, please forgive me. I'm still finding TEMPO sheets that I cached away during the past few weeks.

For instance, there was the "Farewell Teacher" Dinner to Catherine Doyle, of the Metropolitan's New Date Center on Clinton Ave. Extension. Among those pleasant: Mrs. Gladys Cohn, Kingston; Miss Lori Gann, Kingston; Miss Ann Guerin, Staten Island; Miss Gloria Guido, East Kingston; Mrs. Rose Guido, E. Kingston; Mrs. Julie Janasiewicz, Kingston; Mrs. Susan Kennedy, Kingston; Mrs. Janet Norton, Kingston; Miss Patricia Scully, Kingston; Mrs. Midge Smith, Rosendale; Miss Jean Washington, Kingston; and, of the Guest of Honor, Miss Catherine Doyle, of Long Island. I'll have to ask Rose Guido to translate her last comment: "With her diamonds and furs and dangling beads, and with flowers to enhance her beauty, we said a fond Thank to Catherine Doyle . . . and see you Monday." Sounds like some kind of double talk. ***And I'm not about to forget the cozy Birthday Dinner for Mrs. Sadie Garrison, her 80th! The other celebrants were Mr. and Mrs. Milton Arlensky, of Saugerties; Katherine Garrison, of Saugerties; and Sadie Stein, of Miami Beach. From Mr. A.: "Meal Terrific; Service The Same. Thank You!" The thanks are on our part!

And the 30th Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Martin P. Nilan, of Port Ewen. Helping to make it what Mr. Nilan called "An Enjoyable Celebration," were Olive and Joseph J. Ainsinger Sr., of Port Ewen; Pauline and Jackie Chatfield, of New Hyde Park; Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Hyatt, Mary Keresman, Ellen and Dan Lackayo and Helen and Tony Mottsey, all of Kingston; Donna Nilan, Port Ewen; Mr. and Mrs. Martin Oberkirch Jr., Ulster Park; and Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Williams, of West Hurley. ***From "South" of us came a bevy of the "girls" celebrating the Birthday of Rose Nolen, of Milton. From Marlboro: Rose Pesareto, Gloria Robinson, Ann Yeaples. From Milton: Norma Apple, Florence Eckerson, Carol Kramer, Janet Perkins. And from West Park: Jean Gehlert. I loved Norma's tag-line: "We'll be back again!" That's what makes the world go 'round for us! ***Coming a little closer to date: A bunch of the girls were whooping it up for a good reason: (a) Bon Voyage to Lottie Green, off to Jamaica's Montego Bay. Birthday of Sis Mottsey . . . listed as "Sweet 21 plus." Remaining put, (I assume) were the rest of the party: Dotty Bailey, Janita Benicas, Teresa Rock, Deores Hutton and Irene Lawrence. Comment: "Everything and Everyone Swell. Mr. Roberto, he's tops with us girls; also the waiters and waitress." Oh, well . . . I'm used to being the forgotten man!

From Tillson came a sextet to celebrate the Birthday of Robert Morrow. The scribe who filled out the TEMPO sheet noted: "50th Birthday: old enough to know better and young enough not to care! Food and Service Elegant; Birthday Cake Heavenly. Even tho we all dieted previously, we doubled weight with one glorious meal." Among those ignoring the weight watching rules were: Mitro and Ed Parker; Jackie and Frank Negro; and of course, Bob's wife, Joy. ***From West Shokan, Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Maier "snuck" in for a quiet 33rd Anniversary Dinner. "Just us two! Everything Very Much, but Capacity Too Small! Glad you enjoyed your Thirty-Third tote a tote with us. But take a tip from the Tillson folks . . . go on a diet before you get here! ***Victor E. Pizutto, of Poughkeepsie, brought along his wife, Mary and Son Rob to help him celebrate his Birthday. Said Vic: "How many? Uncomfortably close to retirement! However, we had a good day. And Thanks, God-father Ernie, for the lovely Birthday Cake." ***Another close-knit celebration party: Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Carpino and son, Joseph T. Carpino, of Ulster, celebrating a 35th Anniversary. I like the staccato summation: "Service Terrific! No Waiting! Responsive! Friendly!" ***In the Young Set Department, a 13th Birthday Party for Carol Maroney, of Phoenicia, also included Lora Funfstuck, Phoenicia; Lisa Hancock, West Hurley; Rose Hardman, Shandaken; Karen Ray, Bearsville; Ellen and Barbara Sheehan and Mrs. William Sheehan, of Wittenberg. Typical of the laconic modern youth: "It was Good!" ***In Port Ewen for a visit, "Uncle" James Turner, of Sparta, N. J., was feted on his 77th Birthday by Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Henry Sr.; Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Henry Jr. and their son, Bobby G. The Henry consensus: "Delicious as usual!" ***And here's the "Amen" offering for today: The "Couples Club" of the Atonement Lutheran Church, in Saugerties, had their monthly outing with us; said couples being Mr. and Mrs. Bjornseth, Goetz, Kleinert, Miklaus, Olsen, Schmersahl, Seaman, Steinmire and Tate. I have their word for it that, Service and meal were delicious; a delightful time was had by all."

THE COMMERCIAL

A fast round-up: Luncheon Parties are getting more and more popular; good reason: You can snack anywhere, but when you want a memorable Luncheon, it's Roberto's *** That goes for all kinds of Parties, Luncheon OR Dinner. Compare before you commit yourself! *** Dinner at Roberto's is still the best buy in the Hudson Valley, and I've got the figures to prove it. Lessons in elemental addition given without charge to skeptics. (I think I've proved my point to a lot of people lately.)

POTPOURRI

By JOAN L. WOINOSKI

Do we have to tell you Friar Tuck Inn of the Catskills is NOT a religious order of the Roman Catholic Church? We didn't think so! But then, Monks Lounge is not a retreat house either.

Rather, Friar Tuck Inn is to this side of the mountain what the Concord is to the other as far as plush livin' is concerned. Briefly, there are 132 rooms at the Inn, plenty of private balconies offerin' fantastic view of mountain, a foyer—complete with sky-high, hand-carved cathedral ceiling, and wooden beams which could've been hewn by Hercules.

Robin Hood, himself, would've been proud to take Lady Marion out to dine in the Sherwood Room where a la carte entrees include Prime Ribs of Beef, $6; Prime Filet Mignon, $7.95; Broiled Chops, pork or lamb; Surf and Turf, $7.50; . . . and specialties list: Baked Stuffed Shrimp with Lobster Sauce; Sauerbraten; Roast Duckling; Rock Cornish Game Hen; Sea Food au Gratin, $5.25; among MANY others, plus luscious desserts and scrumptious salads.

There's that constant "sound of (live) music" at Monks Lounge where head bartender Ernie serves man-sized cocktails across hand-carved bar to guests seated upon high-chair-like, black upholstered stools from Spain. Breastplates, helmets, swords and shields decorate the walls which are made of individual slats set tongue 'n groove fashion. Wooden pegs instead of nails are used in floor.

For nightlife, there's the stained glass and stucco Scarlet Club (Spanish doors a-comin') with view from every seat and dancin' under "ceiling of lights." Tempos from Kingston have been booked six days a week with entertainment set for Saturdays all winter long. AND by entertainment we mean proprietor Stephen Caridi is negotiati'n' for such top headliners as Peggy Lee and Englebert Humperdinck.

Speakin' of Steve brings to mind the whole Caridi clan, brother Rick who designed and built the Inn and brothers Rocco and Frank. Among them, the brothers-four also operate three other restaurants: Irish Pub, English Pub, Italian Restaurant, to be exact. Next time you're on Third Avenue in New York, visit P.J. O'Hara, corner of 53rd; La Maganette, 54th; and Friar Tuck Inn, 55th . . . Jackie Kennedy Onassis does!

Don't let the Inn's fabulous first impression frighten you. It's not imperative that one be drivin' a Rolls Royce 'n order to be welcome; it just LOOKS that way. But, so you'll know what to expect: the lobby's slightly spectacular, huge enough to hold a dance and beautiful enough for a ball. There are wall tapestries, enormous open stone fireplace, displays of rare conversation pieces from all over the world—Brazil, Istanbul, India; thick gold carpeting; hanging red lights. The rustic lounge walls which have routed-out, ax-chipped look feature plenty of Swiss Gingerbread trim. Besides the nightclub downstairs, there's an indoor pool (olympic-size and temperature-controlled), a Health Club with sauna rooms, and Teen Room.

There's a Coffee Shop; Abbey Room for private affairs; Gift Shop featuring monk banks and cookie jars. (You know the type: Thou Shall not steal; Thou shall not get fat.) A Swiss Village complete with 12 buildings—pastry shop, knick-knacks, sporting goods, oldtime candy—is now in-the-works. There'll be lanterns and cobblestone streets (probably dubbed Knottington Road)?

Oodles of snappy activities keep patrons on-the-go. During recent holiday weekend, Inn offered men's bocci and women's shuffleboard tournaments; watermelon grab (greased); fashion show for swing set, chinchilla fur pieces from Catskill Mt. Chinchilla Ranch; ping pong tournament (men vs. women); old fashioned egg roll; mixed media art show; arts and crafts; apple bobbing contest.

As for sports, there's golfing, tennis, fishing, snowmobiling, skating. Plans include possible Pan Am arrangement to fly skier: up for weekend at Hunter Mountain.

Now . . . with gourmet food, plush surroundings, live entertainment, if we were to say there's somethin' to do whether one's a member of teenyboppers or arthritic set, would we hear a resounding "Amen" out there!

Summer's Outdoor Art Gets an 'Extension'

ULSTER If you missed the Town of Ulster Library's Outdoor Art Show last June, you now have a chance to see some of the artists' paintings which were on exhibit at that time. The Library plans to display the original works of a different artist, or group of artists, each month, throughout the year and right into next summer's show.

Wayne Sittner, who was the first prize winner this past summer, leads off the monthly exhibits, and his paintings are now on view in the library during the month of October. Sittner is a Kingston City Schools teacher; has exhibited widely in Pennsylvania for the past several years and has also participated in local art shows. All artists who were registered in the Town of Ulster

Library's Art Show in June, may take advantage of this "extension" of the summer's one-day exhibit. Actually the Library is offering the 1971 participants a free showcase, or gallery, for any one month's time, for the next eight months, right up to next June. Artists will also have the option of selling their paintings to the public, if they choose to do so. Those interested are urged to contact Mrs. William J. East (331-9086), chairman of the '71 Show, for further details.

'Dames at Sea'

NBC has picked Nov. 15 for a one-hour version of "Dames at Sea," the stage spoof of the 1930s musical movies (Ruby Keeler, Busby Berkeley type). Ann-Margret, Ann Miller, Anne Meara, Dick Shawn, Fred Gwynne and Harvey Evans will be in this creation of George Haimsohn and Robin Miller as distilled for abbreviated television exposure.
